

A Shattering Hercules Blast

By JON POWERS

PORT EWEN

Windows were shattered in the Port Ewen area at 9:35 a.m. this morning after a blasting cap reportedly exploded in a dump at the Hercules Inc. powder plant off Route 9W in Port Ewen.

Blast Heard Throughout City

The blast could be heard and felt throughout the city of Kingston, although no damage was reported from the shock. Smoke at the site could be seen for miles.

Several persons at the Hercules plant were injured by particles of flying glass. According to officials at Hercules, none were hospitalized or seriously injured.

Officials at the plant said that the explosion occurred at the waste disposal grounds, located some 100 yards from the nearest building. Windows at several buildings of the plant were shattered and parts of the ceiling in several buildings were dislodged.

The plant will not curtail operations today, according to officials. The cause of the explosion is currently under investigation. Officials said that they will not probe the grounds until some time Thursday to guard against the possibility of another explosion.

Two women employed at the Pepco Company on Route 9W in Port Ewen, about half a mile from the point of explosion, were injured when a fluorescent light fixture fell after the explosion. The women reportedly were struck by particles of flying glass and acid from the bulbs. They were taken to Benedictine Hospital, where their eyes were washed with a solution.

The two were later released and returned to their jobs. Mrs. Bicknell of Port Ewen, one of the injured, told The Freeman, "All I can remember is being knocked to the floor and getting up later."

Mrs. Patricia Torri of Port Ewen also was knocked to the floor after the explosion. Neither woman was struck by the large fixture, which was located in a cramped room at the rear of the building.

Shop-Rite, IBM Feel It

An employee at Pepco Company said, "I don't see how anyone wasn't killed by the flying glass."

Windows at the Shop-Rite shopping center on Route 9W and the adjoining IBM annex were shattered. There were no injuries reported, however.

A person at the shopping center told The Freeman that the shock of the explosion caused several displays to collapse. A nearby homeowner added that his windows were opened and furniture was overturned, but no damage was reported.

Windshields of some 20 cars in the lot at the Hercules plant were shattered.

The County Republicans: New and Youthful Look

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

There's a new look today in the Ulster County Republican Party — and it's a look with a youthful glow — largely due to the sudden withdrawal of 75-year-old chairman Judge John B. Sterley as a candidate to succeed himself and the unanimous election of Albert Spada, Ulster County Clerk, as the new chairman for a two-year term.

That age played a factor in pre-convention campaigning, there is little doubt and Judge Sterley made that point clear in his final address when he said, "We have reached a time when the elders must give way to youth."

He received a standing ovation. The county Republican organization also took on a new countenance with County Clerk Spada's announcement of an eight-man advisory committee gleaned from every geographical area of the county and the election of two new vice chairmen, and a treasurer. Only two of Sterley's elected slate of officers retained their posts — Vice Chairman Ben J. Slutsky of Ellenville and Treasurer Clarence Anderson of Hurley. Executive Secretary Edward Snyder's post is appointive.

All officers elected were given approval without a contest with the exception of the distaff side of the committee. Mrs. Rose LeFever of Rosendale, challenged by Sally Brinnier of Sau-gerties for the second vice chairmanship, lost the post she had served for a number of years by a vote of 111 to 92.

Edward Callahan, Town of Ulster committee chairman was elected vice chairman and William Collins Jr., GOP chairman in Marlboro was elected treasurer, replacing John Kline who retired from the post.

Callahan was nominated by incumbent third vice chairman, Louis P. Francello who said that, "with the intended renewal of Republicanism from the top down, he can do an excellent job."

Such renewal of Republicanism came to the fore in Spada's speech of acceptance in which he said he hoped every committeeman in the coming months, will "redouble his efforts to make our Republican Party more responsive to the changing social conditions in our country."

The new chairman, in outlining some of his plans for the party, said that in order to be better informed on conditions in all parts of the county, he would create a "chairman's cabinet" — an advisory committee.

To this cabinet he named Saugerties GOP chairman, Louis Francello; M. J. Oscar Smith of Shawangunk; Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature; Edward Hoar Jr. of Ellenville; Kingston Attorney John Larkin; William Davenport of Marlborough; Woodstock Assemblyman H. Clark Bell.

Acknowledging that "politics is not a part time hobby," Spada stated that the County Executive Committee will commence to meet regularly. He said he would personally be available to go into any town or community where he is requested to discuss party matters and invited the advisory and executive committee members in the area involved to participate in such meetings.

Asking that the Republican Party be made a vehicle for progress, Spada suggested, "All it takes is a lot of hard work and a lot of cooperation and a lot of communication. We might get some new ideas and new approaches and put them to work for all of us."

Judge Sterley, reflecting on his two years as chairman, said, "Some water has gone over the dam since then," adding that perhaps he had not given all the time he should have to the party, largely because of a serious injury he sustained in an accident last winter and because of business commitments.

But, he said he had done everything he could to promote the success of the party and cited the many victories in the county, specifically the fact that 28 out of 33 county legislators are Republicans.

Earlier in the meeting, which was held at the George Washington School, a dispute over the seating of a committeeman in the Town of Kingston was settled by a roll call vote of the entire committee which elected Richard Alberstadt over Joseph Quick, 100-84. The vacancy occurred due to a tied vote in the June Primary for one committeeman post. Alberstadt was recommended by the Town of Kingston and Quick by the Town of Ulster.

County Attorney Abram Molyneux who served as temporary chairman told those persons who felt that the matter was not the business of the entire committee, but rather the concern of the Town of Kingston, that party rules call for a vote of the committee as a whole. Quoting the law, he concluded, "I can't change it."

In the voting for party officers, Spada's name was placed in nomination by Jerome Z. Elkin of Ellenville and seconded by Anthony Crespinio of the City of Kingston and Eugene K. Noe of Highland.

Incumbent Slutsky was nominated for reelection as first vice chairman by Larkin, with a second coming from Paul Benson of New Paltz.

The challenger for the second vice chairmanship, Mrs. Brinnier, was nominated by Robert Snyder of Saugerties. Robert Diamond of Marlborough seconded the nomination.

Council on Arterial—A Heated Controversy

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The proposed Ulster Arterial, a continuing controversial subject in Kingston, was the topic of heated and contradictory discussion at Tuesday night's meeting of the Common Council. The debate seemed to center around whether or not Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. had given their full efforts in getting an earlier starting date of the highway than 1972.

John Heitzman (D-First Ward) set off the fireworks with a resolution which stated in part that the senator and the assemblyman were either unable or unwilling to get the starting date for the highway moved up.

Heitzman then reviewed the situation, beginning with a meeting Feb. 19 between members of the Council, the UR Agency and representatives of the State Department of Transportation. Heitzman said that it was at that time that aldermen learned that the highway would not go into construction until 1972. They had hoped for a 1970 date. It was suggested, Heitzman said, that the city work through its state representatives (Rolison and Bell) to try to get the date moved forward.

Letters were sent to the two state legislators asking for their assistance and a special committee of the Council was appointed, led by Emilio Primo Jr. (D-Eighth Ward) to coordinate efforts.

Primo set up a meeting between members of the Council, Bell and Rolison for June 12 at Bell's offices.

The meeting never came off. Both sides have offered their reasons why. Primo said last night that the meeting had been set for 7 p.m. He said he called Bell that day (June 12) to confirm the 7 p.m. time and learned that Bell had scheduled the meeting for 5 p.m. with Rolison. Bell could not make the 7 p.m. meeting and Primo could not make the 5 p.m. time.

Primo also said that he had asked Bell to attend last night's meeting of the Council but that Bell had refused and had attended the county convention of the Republican party instead. Bell said that Primo had originally told him that the Council meeting was July 8, not July 1 and by the time Primo called back to correct the date, he (Bell) was already committed to attend the county convention.

Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward) termed the whole controversy about meeting dates "a conflict of conversations" and suggested a meeting to find out how the conflict came about.

Primo also said that Bell had told him Tuesday afternoon that even if a meeting were set up between he and the aldermen they would "still be whistling Dixie" as far as moving the date forward of the highway was concerned.

Bell denied saying that this morning. Bell added that he is prepared to meet with members of the city government at a mutually agreed time and place.

In other action, the Council approved Perennial Homes as an urban renewal contractor. The firm will build seven, one-family homes on a one-acre track of land in Broadway East. The purchase price of the land, $5,500 also was approved.

The Kingston Narcotics Council also was created by the aldermen. It is expected that the five-member board for the control of the drug problem in Kingston will be appointed by the aldermen at the August meeting.

Hours in the city's parks and playgrounds were changed from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. The parks previously closed at 9 p.m.

A transfer of $4,000 from the contingency fund was approved. Ulster County Community Action Committee will receive $2,000 for its summer program in Kingston and the city beautification program will get the other $2,000.

A $60,000 bond issue for the water department was passed. A sum of $50,000 will go for new eight-inch water mains in the Second Avenue area. The remaining $10,000 will be spent on a new billing machine for the department. Alderman Fred Harder (D-Ninth Ward) commended the Council for approving the bond issue and said the new water lines would correct a serious situation in the area that had existed for more than 20 years.

Alderman Peter Mancuso (D-12th Ward) asked for the Council's support of a bicycle training program by the Kingston Jaycees.

Alderman John Finch presented a petition of 200 names asking for a red and green traffic light on the corner of Ten Broeck Avenue and O'Neil Street. The light is now flashing red one way and flashing yellow the other, a situation residents feel creates a traffic hazard.

Suez Battle: Israel Downs 4 MIGs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli jets shot down four Egyptian MIGs in a dogfight over the Gulf of Suez today, the Israeli army announced.

The army said the Israeli aircraft encountered the MIGs while on patrol, pursued them, and four of the Soviet-built planes were seen falling in Egyptian territory.

The Israelis now claim to have shot down 25 Egyptian warplanes since the June 1967 war.

The Israelis also confirmed that some of their jets flew over Cairo last June 17, an audacious move that led to the firing of Egypt's air force chief, Gen. Mustapha el Hennawi; and Gen. Hassan Kamel, responsible for Egypt's air defense.

Their dismissal was announced in Cairo June 23.

Egypt's new air chief, Gen. Ali Baghdadi, lost three MIGs by Israeli count within days of assuming his new office.

The air clash follows Israeli commando raids on three Egyptian positions in the Gulf of Suez Tuesday night and an Arab guerrilla attack on an Israeli army position in Jordan's occupied West Bank.

A spokesman in Tel Aviv said the Arab raiders were driven off by Israeli fire and there were no casualties.

In a brief communique on the Suez raid, the Israeli army said its commandos killed 13 Egyptian soldiers, took one prisoner and returned safely to base. A map released by the army showed the target area near Ras Issaran, about 100 miles south of Port Suez.

A communique from Cairo said only three Egyptian coast-guardsmen were killed, four were wounded and one was missing.

The Egyptians said 30 Israeli commandos attacked under covering fire from helicopters and a pool of blood was found after the battle denoting a fierce struggle had taken place.

It was the second Israeli commando raid reported by the Israeli army in three days. On Sunday night the army reported one of its units penetrated deep into Egypt and destroyed a 50-kilowatt high-tension power line from the Aswan Dam to Cairo. Egypt denied all knowledge of the raid.

Two Israeli soldiers were reported wounded in sporadic artillery, mortar and small arms fire along the Suez Canal.

Strangulation Ruled In Death of Woman

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

A widespread search for the slayer of Mrs. Theresa Carpino, 61, whose lifeless, burned body was found on the floor of the Circle Bar and Inn kitchen at 746 Broadway early Tuesday, was launched today after it was determined she was the victim of homicide by strangulation.

An investigation directed by Det. Sgt. Charles McCullough in conjunction with Deputy Police Chief Julius Glassman and the staff of Dist. Atty. Joseph P. Torraca, came to a head today when it was learned officially that the wife of Thomas Carpino, operator of the uptown bar, had been strangled.

An autopsy report of County Coroner William S. Keyser disclosed the cause of death.

The possibility that the perpetrator of the gruesome slaying had set fire to the kitchen of the tavern has not been ruled out. In addition to homicide, charges of arson and other felonies might develop as the investigation progresses.

Coroner Keyser is still awaiting reports of analysis of organs and other items sent to the State Police Laboratory. However, it was learned from a reliable source that no weapon is believed to have been used in the homicide.

Immediately after the cause of death was revealed, the round-the-clock investigation intensified as detectives began to round up persons who were known to have frequented the upper Broadway tavern Monday night or early yesterday before the body was found by firemen.

Police prepared to pick up several area residents for questioning, as they sought to uncover any bits of evidence that might lead to the apprehension of the person responsible for the woman's death.

Sgt. McCullough and Glass-man today called upon the public to give police any information they might have that might lead to an arrest. Information may be provided police by call O'Neil Street. The light is now flashing red one way and flashing yellow the other, a situation residents feel creates a traffic hazard.

All information will be held in strict confidence, authorities said.

Death Car—Grim Holiday Reminder

Five persons were killed and five others injured in a three-car collision on wet pavement of U.S. 61, four miles north of St. Mary's, Missouri. The dead were from Missouri, Mississippi and Illinois. The twisted wreckage of one of the death cars is a grim reminder to holiday motorists. Travelers during the three-day Fourth of July weekend should keep in mind the rules of the road and keep from being a statistic. New York State Police Superintendent William E. Kirwan warns that "all drivers should pay particular attention to recognizing potentially dangerous situations, providing themselves with time to avoid accidents." (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Rondout Valley Budget To Be Resubmitted Aug. 13

By SHANE CROSBY

KYSERIKE
Faced with a second year of austerity, the Rondout Valley Central School Board said Tuesday it will resubmit its recently defeated record $4.1 million budget on Aug. 13 without changing it or adding "side issue" propositions.

Saying it is seeking a "simple" ballot with only the main budget to be voted, the board also tightened requirements for petitions to add recently defeated propositions to the second vote.

The board and its Superintendent Dr. Ted T. Grenda said adding "side issues" in the form of propositions would only cloud the main issue of the budget and might lead to a second defeat.

900 Names Needed
After lengthy debate and five attempts at voting on petition requirements, the board set 900 as the number of names needed to have a petition placed before the voters as a proposition for the second time. The figure of 100 was retained as the number needed for new petitions brought before the board.

The higher number was said by the board to give a better reflection of "the will of the people" after noting that both propositions one to increase the budget and the other to decrease it — were defeated by a wider margin than the budget itself.

Newly elected board president Eleanor Black said the budget was discussed at length in executive session and said the decision was to submit it "exactly as it was presented last time."

Mrs. Black, who served on the board as vice president last year, said: "It is a good budget. It is a tight budget. The board did not want to change the budget downwards, she said, because 'we lived under an austerity budget last year...and some very important things were eliminated.'"

The school's cafeteria will be resumed in the fall, she said, adding that if the operation is not on a break even basis, it would be reviewed by the board during the school term. She suggested that an increase in the charges for lunches might be made if it were found to be losing money.
As the board met over the problem of what to do for a 1969-70 budget, the resignation of two Middle School teachers were accepted. A letter from the two was read. It charged that the defeat of the budget and the defeat of a proposition to decrease it by $250,000 was "discouraging" and would "lead to a less than promising future" for RVC teachers.

Two other teachers, Robert and Jessie Carr resigned for "personal reasons," but indicated in their letter that the defeat and the possibility of a second year of austerity at least influenced the decision.

Newsletter Planned.
The Aug. 13 vote, said the board, will be held from 12 noon until 9 p.m. in the Rondout Valley High School with an informational meeting the night before at 7:30 in the auditorium. A newsletter is planned by the board, as well as releases to the news media.

Recent court rulings on voting requirements that now allow for any American citizen 21 or over who has lived in the district for 30 days, were noted by the board as factors that call for a wider spreading of information on the voting.

An emergency austerity budget of $300,000 was approved by the board until passage of a budget, and will be deducted from the final amount.

A new board member, Jack Van Newkirk, told the fewer than 50 persons present for the four hour session that the budget is "a compromise" between calls for increases and calls for decreases. He asked that voters look for "at least one item you like," saying the board "cannot please everyone, but it is reasonably good."

Fish Introduces Legislation For More Social Security Aid

POUGHKEEPSIE
"Dear Congressman Fish: I am 70 years old and am living on Social Security of $78.50 a month. My savings are gone...I am frightened."

"...I saved all my life, but I can't live on what I am getting from Social Security... what am I to do?"

"...try and find an apartment in Poughkeepsie for under $70 a month...this leaves me $23 a month for food, heat, light and telephone."

Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., has used these three samples of letters which he has picked at random to point to the type of problems which come to his desk every day.

"Although there are many reasons for the problems faced by Social Security beneficiaries — old people who have worked all their lives, have saved and paid into Social Security and who now face an old age of poverty and humiliation," the congressman said the most important reason is the thrust of rising prices, taxes and standard of living.

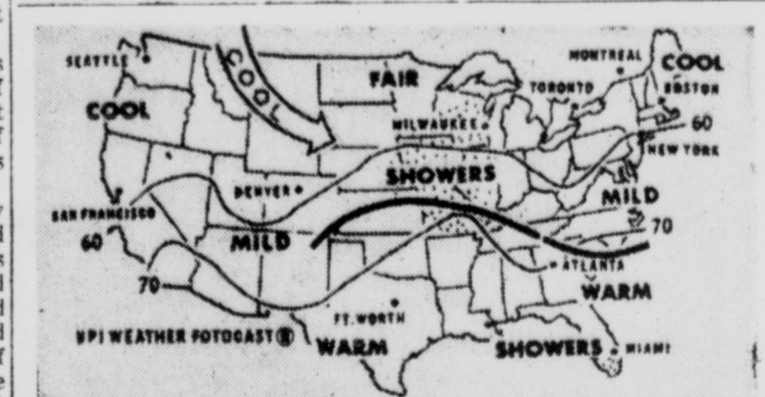

The way we live today is markedly different than the 1930's when the Social Security System was inaugurated, or the 1940's or even the 1950's.

A growing number of Americans are finding it more and more difficult to make ends meet, for the very same reasons. But, the elderly who are totally dependent upon retirement income are defenseless against inflation, and rising taxes. They can't strike...they don't have a commodity for which they can demand higher prices.

"What can be done about the crushing of our senior citizens between the anvil of rising prices and the hammer of inadequate income is not simple. Although a rise in benefits of seven or 10 per cent would help, and I am fighting for such an increase, it would be of short duration unless the present trend of skyrocketing inflation is halted and quickly. For given the average price rise of the last year such an increase, although desperately needed right now, would be wiped out within months as prices continue to spiral upward."

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Thursday
Tonight will find shower activity in the mid and upper Mississippi valley, as well as in parts of the Lakes region and lower Florida. Mostly fair weather will rule elsewhere. Temperatures are likely to show little change. Minimum readings include: Atlanta 70, Boston 57, Chicago 60, Denver 52, Duluth 49, Ft. Worth 75, Jacksonville 73, Kansas City 72, Los Angeles 63, Miami 80, New Orleans 74, New York 60, San Francisco 53, Seattle 48, St. Louis 70 and Washington 66 degrees.

Weidner Gets Onteora Post As President

BOICEVILLE—Onteora Central Schools Board of Education installed a new president during its reorganization meeting at the high school here Tuesday night. Elected to that post was Charles Weidner of West Shokan, who replaces Richard Langham of Woodstock.

Incumbent vice-president W. Jack Kahn, of West Hurley, was elected to continue in that position.

Others named to fill school district offices at the annual reorganization session were:

Dr. Harold Snyder, Superintendent of Schools, who will serve as district clerk for the coming year until Donald Carson, who has been hired to replace Ralph Breakell, who is resigning to accept another job, becomes thoroughly familiar with the position.

Ralph Breakell was appointed acting district clerk until his replacement, Mr. Carson, has established legal residence, at 21 at Boiceville.

Saugerties Teachers, Board Meet for Contract Discussion

SAUGERTIES—No definite results were reached Tuesday in a meeting between the Saugerties Teachers Association and the Saugerties Central School Board of Education, a spokesman for the teachers told The Freeman this morning.

Yesterday's lengthy meeting covered many of the basic problems encountered by the two groups in past weeks. Class sizes and teacher's hours and days were discussed at length but there was not progress reported in formulating a new contract of mutual satisfaction to both parties. The current teacher's contract expires Monday, July 7.

One of the most controversial aspects of the current negotiations is the demand by the Saugerties teachers that they be afforded a pay hike that corresponds with the increased cost of living for the past year. The Board of Education had previously offered the teachers an across-the-board increase of less than three per cent. This offer was rejected by the Teachers Association which claimed that "The Board's offer would not keep pace with the rising cost." (of living.) The Teacher's Association claimed that national figures indicate that the cost of living increased 5.8 per cent for the past year. Another meeting between the Board of Education and the Saugerties Teacher's Association has been tentatively scheduled in two weeks.

which time he will take over in that position.

Longtime school attorney Vincent Connelly, of Kingston, had previously advised the board that, as of next Dec. 31, he will be retiring from all public service. To replace Connelly as school attorney, the board named Alvin Moscovitz of Woodstock.

Other positions were filled as follows. Mrs. Nelson Shultis of Wittenberg was named district treasurer; Mrs. Georgette Kirk was appointed district collector; the firm of Ronder and Ronder will continue as school auditors, and Paul Waser was named census enumerator.

Chief school physician will be Dr. Charles Quinn, of Phoenicia. Serving with him as other school physicians will be Dr. Kenneth Bremer, Dr. Paul LePaige, Dr. Edward Shea and Dr. Margaret Trindle.

The appointment of a attendance officer was deferred until the next meeting, slated for July 21 at Boiceville.

ARRESTED — Five women who said they were representing a Wisconsin peace organization were arrested by U. S. Park Police at an entrance to the White House after the women attempted to stage a sit down on White House property. The women had demanded an audience with the President to protest the Vietnam War. ## Rhinebeck Talks About Dogs

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK—A public dog ordinance hearing for the Village of Rhinebeck was well attended Tuesday night and no official action was taken on the proposed statute.

Residents were not reluctant to speak their minds, with the general tenor in favor of the ordinance with slight modifications.

Mayor Peter Sipperley noted in a preamble that a committee had taken ideas from Rosendale, Saugerties, East Fishkill and several other communities. He emphasized that the ordinance was meant to be flexible, with applied common sense. For example, there is nothing requiring a dog to be kept on a leash, as long as it is under control.

"Most complaints we have had for the past two or three years have been about property damage, with some harassment and nuisance complaints also," said Sipperley. "The great number of complaints is what prompted us to draft this ordinance."

One woman expressed the idea that it was "impossible to put a dog on a rope after having it run loose for seven years." Another stated, "How are you going to keep a dog from barking when it wants to?" The answer given was, "Whip it and shut it up."

A man asked, "What does excessive barking mean?" The answer, "If a person complains, it is excessive."

It was decided that enforcement would be dependent upon a persons complaint. For instance, a neighbor would have to register a complaint with the dog warden or police in order for action to be taken against the dog owner. A policeman would not investigate otherwise.

One phrase led to promised revision. It read "...it shall be unlawful...to allow a dog to run at large at any time in any public street...unless said dog is restrained or accompanied by responsible owner or person."

Instances were given by many of those present of dogs in the village which merely "went to the butcher shop for a bone and minded their own business, never bothering anyone or causing a nuisance."

It was taken under advisement, with all sentiment behind the idea, to rewrite the portion to state that merely running loose without committing any nuisance or other harm would not be considered grounds for a fine.

Action will be taken by the Village Board at its next regular meeting July 8. Those in favor of the ordinance, including one elderly lady who was a professed cat lover, made such remarks as, "If I can control my dog, I don't see why everyone else can't." "Animals don't know any different; owners are supposed to have the brains." "Hunting dogs should not be any exception if no dogs are allowed to run at large."

The fact was brought out by Sipperley that the dog population in the Town of Rhinebeck at the last census two years ago was "between 1,200 and 1,400. Between six and seven hundred of those dogs were licensed; the rest were not. It is the town's responsibility to enforce the state law requiring licenses, not the village's."

It was suggested that perhaps the situation might be alleviated if all of the unlicensed dogs were picked up. It was also noted that it is against the law to shoot dogs, even if running in packs wild. A law officer must dispose of them.

Zoning in Esopus: Serious Objections

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

PORT EWEN—The Town of Esopus proposed zoning ordinance ran into some verbal appraisal Tuesday night at the second in a series of informational meetings held in Esopus Town Hall.

A few times the meeting became unruly when several people of the crowd estimated at 200 spoke at the same time.

The major objection of the 89-page document drafted by Raymond and May Associates, planning consultants of White Plains, appeared to be the provision for size of plot for one-family dwellings. Those who objected thought one acre for a one-family dwelling with public water supply and two acres for dwellings without public water was too excessive.

Nicholas Pascaretti, one of the owners of Tranquility Farm, an automated chicken farm in Rifton, lodged serious objections to the ordinance and said there are too many regulations against poultry farmers and none against fruit farmers.

Robert H. Courtney, a member of the Planning Board defended zoning and explained the residential requirements.

Joseph Montella, a member of the Zoning Commission spoke on the regulations of commercial properties and answered some of the remarks made by Pascaretti.

Mrs. Helen Oberkirch, secretary of the Planning Board also defended the proposed zoning law.

County Legislator Roger W. Mabie, a former supervisor of Esopus came to the defense of the Planning Board. He cited the many problems the town now faces because there was no zoning law to prohibit the influx of some industries and because there was no local legislation to control objectionable practices of these industries. He named three in particular.

Mabie is minority leader of the County Legislature. Mitchell L. Fischman, planning association of Raymond and May also spoke on the proposed zoning law and answered questions about sections of the law. Chester C. Dumond Jr., chairman of the Planning Board presided at the session, which adjourned at 10:45 p.m.

Prince Charles on Tour of Principality

HOLYHEAD, Wales (UPI)—Prince Charles heir to the British throne and now the Prince of Wales, began a four-day tour of the principality today to try to win the affection of the people he represents, including Welsh nationalists whose bombs marred his investiture.

First stop on his whirlwind trip to 23 towns and villages scattered through the Welsh countryside was Llandudno, 17 miles northeast of Caernarvon Castle where Charles was invested in the ceremonial office Tuesday.

The prince was sailing up Wales' northern coast to Llandudno aboard the Royal Yacht Britannia, on which he hosted a party for friends who included some of the most eligible young women of Britain Royal Navy minesweepers watched over the 20-year-old Prince and his party through the night and were companied him on tour. Police and the Royal Family's security guards were taking no chances with Welsh extremists on Charles' well-publicized trip by train and yacht.

Acts of terrorism and mysterious explosions that killed three persons tarnished the historic investiture performed under leaden skies with the world watching on television. A fire that enveloped an Army van and fatally burned a soldier just outside Caernarvon Castle early today was under investigation. Police refused to praise the prince's acceptance of blame extremists but said speech, spoken in the difficult he would "be able to fulfill a useful function in Wales."

The eldest son of Queen Elizabeth II described his elaborate investiture, in which he accepted crown and scepter, as full of meaning and of dedication to future service.

The Queen and his father, Prince Philip, left for London shortly after the Castle ceremony. En route their Rolls-Royce was involved in a minor collision. There were no injuries.

In a brief recorded message to British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) television Tuesday night, Charles, many celebrants, praised the prince's acceptance of blame extremists but said speech, spoken in the difficult he would "be able to fulfill a useful function in Wales."

He told the Welsh he was determined to serve and to try to do as best I can to live up to the demands of his new office. He asked for the people's "cooperation and understanding" and promised to serve as their ambassador to the world.

Most Welshmen thought more kindly of their new prince. Pouring out of pubs during the night after indulging in toasts to Charles, many celebrants,

And Prospects for Soviet Summit

May Reveal the Whys on Romania Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers was expected to clarify today why President Nixon has decided to make a quick visit to Romania and what the prospects are for a summit meeting with Soviet leaders.

Sources close to Rogers indicated he primarily was responding to newsmen's requests in scheduling the news conference and had only minor announcements of his own.

Nixon's world-circling trip to Asia and Romania has eclipsed for the time being other areas of U.S. diplomacy. The administration has indicated other East European nations have also invited Nixon, but it has declined to name them.

The White House has presented Nixon's voyage to Asia and Romania as an effort to visualize how a stable, long-range peace may be achieved—particularly after the Vietnam War. But some questions are certain to be posed to Rogers.

One is whether Nixon might make an unannounced visit to Soviet leaders either in Moscow or other capitals. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield urged Nixon to fly from Bucharest to Moscow to meet with Kremlin leaders.

No Plans...But
White House sources have tried to discourage speculation that a side trip is being contemplated. State Department spokesmen have said they are aware of no preparations for a Soviet-American summit conference.

Nevertheless, diplomatic observers noted Nixon is scheduled to end his visit to Bucharest Aug. 3. He is scheduled to be in Washington Aug. 7 to greet West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger.

This leaves three days during which Nixon's schedule could provide opportunity for a surprise visit.

Other Subjects
Among other subjects, Rogers was expected to: —Reassert the United States intends to remain a Pacific power and takes a deep interest in the security of Asia, despite plans for withdrawing troops from Vietnam.

—Clarify President Nixon's intentions for troop withdrawal particularly against the background of the suggestion of former Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford to remove all U.S. combat forces by the end of 1970.

—Express continuing American concern over the treatment of U.S. prisoners of war held by the Communists in North Vietnam, South Vietnam and in Laos.

—Indicate what progress has been made in reaching agreement with the Soviet Union on opening talks aimed at limiting offensive and defensive missiles system.

—Comment on continuing Arab-Israeli tensions and the prospect for a permanent peace settlement, some of the details of which are being discussed in talks between the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Great Britain.

Czech Red Bosses Purge Officials

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's hardline Communist bosses purged officials in two major party organizations and announced editorial shakeups on three daily newspapers today.

At the same time, pro-Soviet journalists and party propaganda officials launched a campaign to isolate newsmen unwilling to support the government's policy of appeasing Moscow.

The moves were part of the continuing drive to dismantle the liberal Communist apparatus and press freedoms that existed in Czechoslovakia before the Soviet-led invasion in August 1968.

New editors in chief were named for the daily Rovnost in Brno, the daily Pruboj in the northern Bohemian city of Usti-on-Elbe, and the Prague daily Zemedelske Noviny, published by the Food and Agriculture Ministry.

The papers were the 11th, 12th and 13th dailies to get new editors since hard-liner Gustav Husak took over the nation's Communist party in April.

Prague radio reported that the 12-man Presidium of the North Bohemian party organization had resigned en masse at the same time Miroslav Kindl submitted his resignation as editor of Pruboj.

The editor of Rovnost, Bohumil Marcek, resigned along with three party functionaries, including the chief district secretaries in Brno and the town of Blansko. The Brno official, Jaroslav Sabata, was purged from the party.

The Czechoslovak news agency CTK said the Brno party presidium had criticized Rovnost for showing too little commitment "in the political struggle with rightist-opportunist tendencies within the party."

In Prague, Zdenek Fort was dismissed as editor of Zemedelske Noviny by the Czech food and agriculture minister. The minister said Fort would be given another responsible position.

FULL REGALIA — Prince Charles wears the full regalia of the Prince of Wales in this official portrait. Over a military uniform he wears an ermine robe. On his head is a gold coronet, containing 75 diamonds and 12 emeralds. In one hand he carries the Gold Rod; in the other the Sword of Office. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

For a Safe Holiday

There is prospect for many of a long weekend holiday because Independence Day falls on Friday. With these extra days, there is likelihood of crowded highways and the probability of many fatalities and serious injuries.

Excessive speed, failure to grant the right of way, driving on the wrong side of the road and tailgating are among the top driving errors that result in highway accidents. Faulty steering mechanisms and brakes have been found as the leading causes of improperly functioning cars involved in accidents. We have mentioned these causes before and also have stressed the observance of safeguards and precautions.

At the risk of repeating tiresome warnings, we once again suggest that you give your car a thorough safety check and that you drive carefully and courteously. Neglecting seat belts, tires, brakes together with excessive speed can make the difference between life and death.

The first five months this year, some 24,000 died on the highways. And over the Memorial Day weekend, 543 more died just as uselessly. Like all the rest, they died violent, agonizing, cruel deaths.

To avoid being among those who will die in traffic this holiday period, imagine you will be among those killed every time you start out in your car. Perhaps you will drive so you won't be one. In one area, where each fast driver cut his speed ten miles an hour, there were no deaths one weekend.

Small Town U.S.A.

Forecasts of the 1970 Census indicate that Small Town U.S.A. is on the way to coming into its own. Big cities are losing population. The first beneficiaries are the suburbs. But beyond the suburbs the open countryside is benefitting, too.

As everyone knows, riots, racial tensions, crime in the streets have driven the whites and middle class blacks to the suburbs. Industry, looking for safer and more reliable work forces, has gone beyond the suburbs into the small towns and cities.

The movement outward from the central cities is expected to be confirmed by the census figures. The big cities losing population for the first time, the suburbs picking up the losses and even adding to them, and the small cities and towns showing the new trend to the open countryside.

Even the end of the decline of the small farm is possible. Many are making their homes on the farms, and driving into the small city or town for their work on business. And others in rural America are finding out how lucky they are to be there, away from the big city disturbances. Small Town U.S.A. may again be the salvation of the nation.

Billion Postal Savings

President Nixon and Postmaster General William M. Blount have just begun to fight for the transformation of the Post Office Department into a government-owned corporation. Blount is out in the country, on a tour of inspection, in which he is telling the story of the great reform and what it will do for the service.

First of all, Blount said that within five years the changeover will mean such efficiency that it will be possible to turn the deficit-ridden operation completely around. The eventual cut in expenses will save $1 billion a year.

The idea of a government-owned corporation is not new. As examples Blount cited the Tennessee Valley Authority, the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Postal employees would retain full Civil Service and retirement benefits. They could bargain collectively, but strikes would be outlawed. Disputes would go to panel discussion and mediation.

The postal service has been deteriorating for years. Not only Blount but his two predecessors, Lawrence F. O'Brien and W. Martin Watson, advocated a corporation.

For the 5,000 new patients a year who need help in maintaining a steady heartbeat, the world's first atomic-powered heart pacer may be a godsend. Successfully implanted in a dog, the Atomic Energy Commission expects it will trigger a steady heartbeat for at least 10 years.

The United Nations Security Council unanimously extended the life of the peacekeeping force on Cyprus until December 15 in the hope that Greek and Turkish Cypriot differences will permit a reduction of the seven-nation 3,480-man force. It will cost $16 million beyond the present deficit. That's cheaper than the civil war it has checked.

Western Pennsylvania carpenter work is at a standstill because carpenters in 20 counties demanded the Pittsburgh scale of $6.45 an hour replacing their present base of $4.95 an hour. The Pittsburgh scale means $258 for a 40-hour week, $13,416 for a year. Inflation has many angles.

David Lawrence Says

Nixon's Journey to Asian Nations a Peace Mission

WASHINGTON — Many people who are not aware of some of the nuances of international diplomacy may wonder why a President of the United States — who made a seven-day trip starting on February 23 to visit five allies of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe — now announces he will travel from July 23 to August 3 on a journey to five Asian nations and one Communist-Bloc Country, Rumania. Why, it will be asked, would he be doing this when there are so many domestic problems confronting him?

The answer is that the solution — indeed the financing — of many of the challenging demands at home is directly related to whether there will be peace in Southeast Asia.

The journey could be of far-reaching significance, too, in shaping the course of events toward peace in the world. First of all, it is a psychological undertaking.

The emphasis is on peace, and the purpose is to mobilize world opinion behind the American objectives. Appeals to the peoples abroad directly by a President of the United States have too long been neglected. As Mr. Nixon will be making speeches on principles and also carrying on intimate conversations privately with governmental leaders, he will achieve more impact than he would through the fragmentary despatches from this country which are printed in foreign newspapers.

Underlying President

Nixon's idea in going to Asia and then later to Rumania, is a sincere desire to assure those with whom he will be talking that the United States stands ready to participate in the economic development of all countries. It is a better use of public funds than the spending of billions of dollars on war, along with the sacrifice of many lives and the wounding of huge numbers of soldiers on both sides of a conflict.

In selecting the Philippines, Indonesia, Thailand, India and Pakistan, Mr. Nixon will be giving assurance that the United States, upon withdrawing its troops from South Vietnam — hopefully, within the next two years — will continue to stand by the weaker countries to prevent any aggressors from violating the principle of self-determination for all peoples.

The Secretary of state, William P. Rogers, will accompany Mr. Nixon to the Philippines and Indonesia but will make a separate visit to Japan, Korea, Formosa, Australia and New Zealand. Appearances by an American Secretary of State in Asia are not frequent, and the peoples of the countries with whose governments Mr. Rogers will have an opportunity to confer are very important in shaping the future of the free areas of Asia.

The White House explains the purpose of the whole mission by saying that the President is convinced the United States must remain a Pacific power. He feels that the region is one of "dynamic evolution which is of intimate concern" to this country and that America should continue to play a strong role "whatever the frustrations are."

The implication of such comments at this time is that, as America's intention to pull troops out of Vietnam is widely publicized, it is important to reassure the small countries that they will not be forsaken if serious contingencies arise.

In the background of all this is the emerging crisis between the Soviet Union and Communist China. The manifest purpose of the Peking government now is to line up the Asian countries behind it. The Moscow government, on the other hand, has lately initiated a plan for a defense pact called a "System of Collective Security" in Asia. While designed to head off a rise in power by the Red Chinese, it could mean a move to secure Soviet domination of the whole continent.

As for the conference which Mr. Nixon will have with the President of Rumania, it was the latter who issued the invitation. The American President can take advantage of it to express to all the Communist-Bloc countries of Eastern Europe the deep interest of the United States in their welfare. The hope is that sooner or later the peoples of those nations as well as of Red China and the Soviet Union will be able to establish governments which will join the United States in supporting the right of self-determination and independence for the people of every country.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Twilight drenched the sky and the sea with pink and burnt orange. Che Guevara, a handsome, bearded man with arms around two Cuban girls strolled with me out of Columbia barracks up toward the snowy statue of Christ overlooking Havana Harbor.

We spoke cordially, but both of us understood that we were at opposite ends of the political spectrum.

I said that the weakness in the world of Communism was that it was always running out of heroes. He told me that he tired of discussing politics.

Still, he freed one arm for an eloquent gesture and said that the world of socialistic republicans was now opposed to a "personality cult" and required no heroes.

The human mind, I said, is gaited to hunt for a hero. He frowned and asked for a translation of the word gaited.

I gave it to him. We stood near the top of the hill. Below, a score of Castro's barbudos gathered between the rows of wooden barracks to admire a five-year-old boy whose mother had fashioned a brown Castro uniform, an overseas type cap, and a false beard.

The talk was fruitless. We wasted thought and breath on each other. I reminded him that Lenin was a hero and that he could not have joined the revolution of the workers in Russia without the connivance of the German Kaiser and a sealed train furnished by the enemy. "Your hero," I said, "accepted help from the Germans who were raping Russia."

He said he had no interest in Lenin. I asked him if it weren't true that he, as commander of Castro's army, was not a Cuban at all, but an Argentinian, with membership in the Communist Party.

His response was oblique. "I think I will accept citizenship here," and he kissed both girls.

Now he too is dead and Che is a Communist hero in story book and motion pictures. Josef Stalin is dead. He was so paranoid that, when a Soviet general was summoned to the Kremlin in World War II, he automatically made out his will and assumed that he would be shot without trial.

Back in 1934, the little despot appointed Andrei Vishinsky to conduct showcase purge trials against highly-placed revisionists in the Communist Party.

Vishinsky badgered and taunted the prisoners before demanding the death sentence of the frightened judges. The prosecutor never attained the status of hero, but Stalin did.

When he died, his statues and pictures came down and the rollicking peasant, Khrushchev, became premier and he too announced that the cult of personality was dead, never to be revived.

But he who banged his shoe atop a United Nations desk, became a hero and the Presidium of the Soviet Socialist Republics decided that he must go. He retired to a dacha (chalet) outside Moscow to tend his flowers and study the backs of brown tunics armed with rifles and bayonets.

The thinking of the Czechs and Slovaks was not altered by the tanks and army units, but the government was. And yet the cult of personality survives. Castro, for example, is Cuba. In poverty, he is the messiah and Che is the martyred apostle. Mao is master of 700,000,000 Chinese, even though he too had to purge his party of "revisionists," which consists of anyone who tries to alter, ever so slightly, the doctrine of Karl Marx.

Tito is Yugoslavia. It is as though the man at the top cannot resist the adulation of the people. Tito is revisionist inasmuch as he refuses to acknowledge the Motherhood of Russia. Little Albania turns away from Russia and faces the round molasses sun of Mao. To coin a cliché, we learn from history that we learn nothing from history.

Lenin said that the party requires only 3 per cent membership in any nation to control the government, the military, and the news media. It is a tragic truth. The one thing which cannot be controlled is the erosion of the concrete face on top of the heap. The rains of time always reduce it to sand running down a gutter...

Drew Pearson Says Internal Revenue Is Checking Don Nixon's Income Tax Returns

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service now has the delicate duty of "auditing" the income tax returns of the President's younger brother, Don Nixon.

Actually a tax investigation of Don was initiated by Internal Revenue in the last administration, but Don asked that it be postponed. The Johnson administration agreed, so now Internal Revenue is in the position of scrutinizing the tax returns of the President's brother at a time when the President controls it.

Meanwhile evidence accrues that Don Nixon has been trying to capitalize once again on his brother's fame. This is not exactly new for Don. While Richard was Vice President, Don tried to establish a chain of drive-in restaurants which featured a triple-decker sandwich called the "Nixonburger." To finance the venture and pay back debts he borrowed $205,000 from the Hughes Tool Company.

The Nixonburger never became a threat to the hamburger of cheeseburger, however, and the drive-in idea flopped. The $205,000 loan, secured by a mortgage on Lot 10 on Whittier Boulevard in Whittier, Calif. — a piece of real estate that no bank would have accepted as security for a loan of that size — was never repaid. The Nixon family lot is now registered in the name of the Hughes Tool Company.

Don also incorporated himself and began selling shares to eager Republicans who might want to curry favor with the Vice President. This idea backfired when an embarrassed Richard Nixon found out about it and quietly put the kibosh on Donald Nixon, Inc.

Unabashed, Don continued to wheel and deal, once had to be bailed out by his famous brother for several thousand dollars. Not long after Richard was elected, Don began boasting to friends that he expected to make a million dollars during the next four years. As the first step, he negotiated a substantial raise in his own salary from Ogden Foods, a vending machine company which he represents in California.

Eye Out for Clients
He also made contact with John Hill, president of Educational Play, a Boston company that manufactures playground equipment. Hill has made a pitch for some of the "new money" that President Nixon has authorized for cleaning up riot areas.

Hill insisted to this column that Don Nixon didn't offer to help wangle playground grants from the Nixon administration, but that he was interested merely in representing the company on the West Coast. In any case, Don wrote Hill an abrupt letter, withdrawing from the deal, after he learned we were investigating.

Don also showed up at the White House the other morning with Elmer Stone, assistant general counsel for Ryan Aeronautical Company, in tow. Stone has largely taken over the duties of B. K. Goodman, the general counsel, who has been in poor health.

Ryan Aeronautical is reported to be in need of government contracts to improve its financial situation. To get favored treatment from the Nixon administration, Stone apparently sought to take advantage of his friendship with Don Nixon.

A company spokesman, when queried by this column, claimed that Stone has been Don's legal adviser. He alleged that the two traveled all the way to Washington merely to notify the White House that the relationship had been severed.

It is, of course, highly unusual for a corporate counsel, without an independent practice of his own, to serve as an outsider's personal attorney. Nevertheless the company spokesman insisted that Stone wanted to tell the White House in person — because Ryan is a defense contractor — that he is no longer Don Nixon's attorney.

Whatever the motive, it is a fact that Nixon and Stone together called upon White House aide John Ehrlichman. What they said and did is one of those secrets which do not come under the new Nixon communications complex. Ehrlichman refused to talk about the visit.

It would seem, however, that in view of Don's past wheeling-dealing, the public should be entitled to know the details of what the President's brother was doing in the White House with a defense contractor.

Badly Needed Education

Without any fanfare, President Nixon has been bringing student radicals to the White House for private talks. They've been organized by Bud Wilkinson, the University of Oklahoma coach, now on the White House staff, but Henry Kissinger and other top advisers have also participated.

These advisers have given Nixon a blunt report on the education gap, namely that big city schools are getting more children but less money, that the taxpayers are also rebelling against additional property taxes to increase the school budgets, and that the only solution is federal assistance to big city schools. It has been suggested that it may take $8 billion a year to bring our deteriorating schools back up to standard.

Meanwhile, the Students for a Democratic Society and the Black Panthers have joined forces in some cities. They have also increased in number.

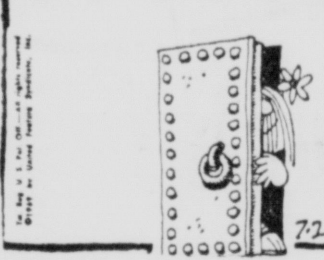

A year ago, there were only 70 Black Panthers in the United States — all located in the San Francisco area. Now there are over 1,600 Black Panthers in 45 cities. They are dedicated to guerrilla warfare and have already started assassinating policemen. They also have direct ties to their leader, Eldridge Cleaver, who is hiding out in Cuba.

By joining forces with the SDS, the Black Panthers hope to convert the SDS from mere campus disorder to outright guerrilla warfare in the big cities. They are also attempting to infiltrate the labor unions and stir up trouble there.

Henry J. Taylor Says The Cost of Appeasement

WEST BERLIN — I first came to this fated place as a student 46 years ago. In the 1920s German politics boiled down to a battle between the Communists and the Nazis. Then when the Nazis took power under appealing pretenses and turned the nation into a police state, it was too late. It was Siegfried bathing in the blood of the dragon he had killed.

Much has happened here, and in my life, since then. I was, in fact, the last American to leave Berlin before Pearl Harbor.

Much has happened here, and in my life, since then. I was, in fact, the last American to leave Berlin before Pearl Harbor.

From here the German Kaiser blew up the world. World War I killed 10 million people. A full 1.4 million Americans served in France fighting the Berlin forces. Then on May 2, 1918, one out of every 10 German soldiers in their Berlin infantry barracks was executed by Communists in their own ranks. And the Red revolution at Berlin's Brandenburg Gate, brought by by-products that finally paved the path for Hitler.

From here Hitler blew up the world. World War II killed 35 million people. But Hitler never liked Berlin. He intended to change this city's name to Germania. This was because in every free election in the '30s Berliners rejected him. In 1932 he got only 23 per cent of the Berlin vote, the lowest of any major city in this nation.

Hitler seized power under banners that shouted: "Der Bannerträger" — "The Standard Bearer" — and I saw him do it. Soon gnomelike Goebbels changed the slogan to: "The Führer Commands. We Follow." (Toward the end, with Berlin canonaded into cinders, it became: "The Führer Commands. We Bear What Follows.")

In 1933 the Nazis began importing people — eventually 7 million, chiefly during the war. Some occupied countries were nearly bled white: 500,000 from Holland alone; more than 100,000 foreigners, mostly French and Russians, worked in wartime Berlin. They, of course, have long since been killed or have fled. In fact, East Germany is probably the only country in the world, and certainly in Europe, that has a smaller population today than the area had 30 years ago.

In 1934 Hitler confided to Berlin writer Hermann Rauschning that he intended to fight England and France and added: "We must proceed by steps so that no one will impede our advances. These will be guaranteed by our international opponents' lack of firmness." In short, by appeasement.

First Hitler reoccupied the Rhineland. Then on March 13, 1938, he annexed Austria, thus brought to that lovely land war, ruin and 10 years of Allied occupation. On the identical day in 1939, calling Czechoslovakia "a nation in name alone," Hitler issued an ultimatum to the Czechs. The Nazi Sudetendeutsche Bund, singing their brutal "Horst Wessel Lied" song, sabotaged Czechoslovakia — and I saw them do it.

And there was fateful, fateful Munich. A recent Associated Press nationwide survey of the 21-30 age group, college educated Americans, revealed that less than half the women and only 61 per cent of the men identified Munich as a symbol of appeasement; many thought it a beer. Yet, we forget Munich at our peril.

With the appeasement of Munich Hitler became increasingly sure of himself. And, as surely as Austria followed the Rhineland and Czechoslovakia followed Austria and Poland followed Czechoslovakia and six years of world war followed Poland, that can follow in Southeast Asia and elsewhere if the enemy prevails through appeasement.

In the Sportsplatz here Hitler asked: "Do you want total war?" And I heard the masses answer with "Heil! Heil! Heil!" Then, after British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced the war on September 3, 1939, the so-called phony war, with little or no action, lasted more than a year; and I saw much of that here, too. But when the Berlin bigwigs thought the timing was right they struck in all directions, swift and murderous as a flung knife. The first burst of the Nazis surprise attack on Rotterdam destroyed its heart and left 718 dead and 78,000 wounded and homeless.

The real lesson here in Berlin is that the cost of appeasement goes up each time. The cost of appeasement is war; the price of peace is to stand firm.

U.S. Public Looks Favorably On New Viet Peace Plans

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N. J.—A new assessment of public opinion on the Vietnam war shows that more than forty in every one hundred citizens favor withdrawing troops at a faster rate than the 25,000 proposed by Nixon between now and September. But a substantial majority continue to oppose any immediate withdrawal of all troops.

More important, the survey finds the public in favor of two proposals, one identified with Cyrus Vance, formerly a member of the U. S. negotiating team in Paris, and the other a plan that evolved from earlier explorations of the public's views on the Vietnam war.

During the last five years public opinion on the war in Southeast Asia has been probed thoroughly in more than 100 separate nationwide surveys. Consistently these surveys have brought to light these basic viewpoints of the American people:

• The majority believe that the war is primarily South Vietnam's and not ours.

• Early in the war, the public came to the conclusion that a military victory in the usual meaning of this term is unlikely.

• As the war continued, a growing number of Americans, now slightly more than one-half, believe it was a mistake to have become involved with troops, but the public has been unwilling to withdraw these troops abruptly.

• A rather substantial majority have favored training and equipping South Vietnamese troops to enable them to take over the fighting and to permit the staged withdrawal of American troops.

• The public applauded President Johnson for initiating the peace talks in Paris, but in the period since, most have lost hope that these talks will be productive.

The people, in short, want to find an honorable way out of Vietnam, but it has to be a way that does not negate our commitments or has any appearance of being a military defeat.

In the survey completed during the last few days, a majority of the 1,448 people interviewed from coast to coast look favorably upon a plan recently advanced by Cyrus Vance. The plan calls for a standstill cease-fire on both sides. The Vance proposal would have the U. S. take the initiative, with or without the prior agreement of North Vietnam, to see whether they respond to this action.

President Nixon in his recent press conference stated that he too favored a cease-fire but that he wanted a supervised cease-fire to which both parties, North and South Vietnam, had first agreed.

The majority of those interviewed approve of having the U. S. call for a cease-fire, as the following survey findings indicate. The question asked was this:

It has been suggested that the U. S. call for a cease-fire in Vietnam with both sides staying where they now are. Would you approve or disapprove if the U. S. took this step?

The survey findings, based on interviewing June 20 through 24, show the following:

Standstill Cease-Fire

Approve ..... 53%
Disapprove ..... 34%
No opinion ..... 13%

With little hope that anything constructive will come out of the Paris peace talks—even an agreement to a cease-fire—the American public is looking for a plan that does not depend upon the approval of North Vietnam and yet that will bring about a disengagement.

That the majority of Americans will regard favorably unilateral action of this type, provided that it fits in with the basic viewpoints described, can be assumed from the views registered on a three-part proposal presented in this same survey.

The plan was developed from an analysis of the public's views and from questions put to the public in earlier surveys on aspects of the war in Southeast Asia.

All persons in the survey were handed a card which spelled out this proposal:

1. An international organization, such as the U. N., would supervise an election in South Vietnam to see what kind of government the majority of people wanted.

2. The U. S. would agree to withdraw all its troops within the next 12 months, regardless of the outcome of the election.

3. The U. S. would keep aircraft carriers off the coast of Vietnam, prepared to bomb military installations in North Vietnam, to help insure that North Vietnam does not send troops or war material into South Vietnam.

Here are the national findings:

Three-Part Plan on Vietnam

Favor ..... 55%
Oppose ..... 26%
No opinion ..... 18%

If the views of those who have attended colleges, and who as a group are the best informed, are examined, these results are brought to light:

The College-Educated

Favor ..... 63%
Oppose ..... 25%
No opinion ..... 12%

By a ratio of 42 per cent to 16 per cent persons with a college background say that the 25,000 troop withdrawal planned for the coming months is not fast enough, as opposed to those who say it is too fast.

The college-educated, as a group, oppose the immediate withdrawal of troops by more than a three-to-one ratio, actually 74 per cent to 22 per cent. This group favors having the U. S. take steps to call for a standstill cease-fire by a ratio of 51 per cent to 39 per cent.

Finally, the college-educated favor the three-part proposal by the ratio of 63 per cent to 25 per cent, as shown in the table above.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Frank F. Goetzmann's new teeth gave him a pain in the vallet. He was cruising a city expressway when he sneezed and both plates sailed out the window.

With traffic zipping along at 50 miles an hour he couldn't stop, nor could he find the teeth later when he retraced his route.

The only thing was to order another set from the dentist. "Now I drive with the windows closed," Goetzmann said.

Prisoner Rehabilitation

Editor, The Freeman:

I don't believe any policeman, district attorney, juror, judge or any official connected with the law and its enforcement will disagree with this article.

Our country advanced to the point where we are planning to build an atomic reactor on the moon in the next five years following this coming July Apollo landing, if successful, but our jails and prisons are manufacturing criminals instead of rehabilitating them.

I am not very happy about public apathy on this issue because any crime no matter how large or small affects every law abiding citizen and taxpayer.

Do you know that statistics prove that we have the highest crime rate of any country in the world by population?

Is it because we place offenders into incarceration merely to weed them out of society? In most cases, the minor offender is integrated with the professionals due to overcrowded conditions.

These young inexperienced criminals learn the fine arts from these pros and when they terminate their sentence the situation is worse than when they entered.

Hence our present conditions of confinement from the local jail to prison promote criminal tendencies, bitterness and social retaliation upon release. We tell the offenders we are locking them up for their own good, but what we are actually doing is showing them a society at its worst.

The tools to change and rehabilitate these people is needed or we can expect even higher statistics in the years to come. There has been some breakthrough but not fast enough.

Paying a criminal to make license plates is not job training, but trade programs, commercial, and the professional skills of their choice is rehabilitation if they are willing to be rehabilitated.

I hope the day will come in the not too distant future when equal to it. Holy Quran was Mr. Taylor mentions in his column. He is the supreme, the Almighty, the exalted and His throne is being held by Angels and not by winged animals as described by Mr. Taylor.

The statements by Mr. Henry Taylor regarding the belief of Muslims in Fate, Human Destiny and The God (which is known as Allah in Arabic), are completely erroneous and misleading. It seems as if he could not grasp properly the deep philosophy lying behind the verses in Holy Quran. Of course, it takes more wisdom and knowledge to understand a re-prophet is prophet Mohammed and Jesus is a prophet and not a son of God. Muslims believe in the same God as the Christians and Jews. Holy Quran never described God the way

Mohammed and His Koran

Editor, The Freeman:

I read the article "Mohammed and His Koran" by Henry J. Taylor, with extreme disgust.

I wonder how you could have published a column so filled with lies and misconceptions. There are over 600 million Muslims in the Islamic world and over one million in the United States alone. Your article shocked me, a Muslim living in Kingston, along with millions in the rest of the world. The mis-statements in Mr. Taylor's column have caused further misunderstanding between the Islamic world and the United States of America.

Prophet Mohammed, peace be on him, was a posthumous child. His father died four or five months before his birth. His childhood, adolescence, and adult life was full of virtue and kindness. He was known as Sadiq (the one who speaks always the truth) and Amin (the honest one), even by his enemies. He never went to any school and did not know how to read or write. Then how could he have written so elaborate a book (Holy Quran) that no man could have produced anything

Probe Woman's Death, Suicide Is Hinted

ROSENDALE — State Police BCI officers today investigated the death of a 27-year-old woman, whose body was discovered off River Road with a butcher knife penetrating her chest. Details of the case were sketchy as authorities sought to unravel the case.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Carol Mallardi, wife of Anthony Mallardi, of RD 2, Box 190, New Paltz. The body was found early this morning about 10 feet off the highway not far from her home.

Senior BCI Investigator Edward Shannon, who is directing the investigation with Sr. BCI Investigator Charles Teelon, said the woman apparently stabbed herself with the knife. He said it is apparently a case of suicide.

A note was found but details were not disclosed pending further investigation.

The body was taken to the County Morgue at Kingston Hospital where an autopsy was to be performed.

Authorities said Mrs. Mallardi was seriously injured in an industrial accident in a New Paltz plant about a year ago, when her hair became caught in a machine and her scalp was nearly torn off.

Conference Is Called On Medicaid Boycott

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — Sen. Norman F. Lent, R-East Rockaway, has called a special conference in New York City July 18 aimed at ending the boycott of the controversial Medicaid program by pharmaceutical and dental societies around the state.

Shortly after Lent announced the conference Tuesday, the State Pharmaceutical Association ended its Medicaid boycott. The boycott lasted eight days and was called to protest the legislature's decision to pay 80 percent of Medicaid fees in some cases—leaving the remaining 20 per cent for the customer.

A spokesman for the association said the boycott was terminated because talks had been

Two Injured, One Cited After Local Mishaps

KINGSTON — Rose Incovair, 43, of 102 Main Street, New Paltz, who was a motorist was cited by police driving along the Boulevard as the result of traffic accidents when the Georgio car at early today. Police also charged tempted a right turn. Georgio, a 77-year-old man with driving was cited for passing a stop sign while intoxicated after a mishap on Wall Street.

Godfrey J. Collier, 30, of 15 Abruy Street, was injured at a.m. today when his car went out of control, struck a utility pole and crashed through a fence on East Strand near the property of the Miron Lumber Company. Police said Collier was treated at Kingston Hospital for lacerations and a possible broken right leg. Collier told authorities he swerved to avoid an oncoming car and lost control of his vehicle.

Henry A. Marks, 77, of 9 Kingsburg Avenue, was charged with drunken driving and failure to keep to the right after his car hit a parked vehicle on Wall Street near Elizabeth Street shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Human Torch

SAIGON (UPI) — A South Vietnamese Marine died in a Saigon hospital Tuesday shortly after he set himself afire in a street downtown. Authorities said the victim, Vo Van Be, 40, was injured at 1:10 a.m. in a collision with another car on the Boulevard at Washington Avenue. Tzelepis was taken to Kingston Hospital and treated for injuries to the head and apparently carried out the self-immolation for personal reasons. The other car was driven by sons.

Haiti Warms To Rocky in The Wrap-Up

PORT AU-PRINCE (UPI) — Buoyed by the warmest reception of his Latin American tour, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller today listened to a plea for more U.S. aid for Haiti, the hemisphere's poorest nation.

The New York governor, on the fourth and final leg of his fact-finding tour for President Nixon, was meeting with Haitian government and business leaders before flying this afternoon to the Dominican Republic, the eastern two-thirds of the mountainous island of Hispaniola.

Although Rockefeller had but 22 hours here, his visit was regarded as extremely important by Haitian government officials. U.S. aid to Haiti has been sharply reduced from $12 million in 1962 when President Francois Duvalier refused to accept U.S. supervision of his programs.

Since then the United States has given Haiti about $2.5 million a year to fight malaria and aid in food relief. Haitian officials were hopeful the Rockefeller visit would mark the beginning of a new relationship with the United States, including stepped up aid.

Apollo 11 Leak Interrupts Test

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — A leaking ground fuel valve interrupted the final two hours of a trial countdown today for the launch of Apollo 11 in two weeks on history's first moon landing mission.

The dress rehearsal had proceeded with scarcely a flaw for 5½ days until the countdown was stalled at 7:42 a.m. EDT—one hour and 50 minutes before a simulated blastoff. The length of the "hold" was not immediately determined.

It was the last major ground test scheduled before the July 16 launch of Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin. The purpose of the test was to uncover such problems before the real launch countdown begins next week.

The towering space machine was fully fueled at the time the hold was called. The problem involved a valve in a liquid hydrogen line which was to replenish the fuel supply in the third stage of Apollo's rocket.

A spokesman at the launch control center said the faulty valve was located on the 250-foot level of the umbilical tower standing next to the frost-coated launcher.

Armstrong, Collins and Aldrin were not participating in today's test because of the risks involved with a fully fueled Saturn 5 rocket.

They were scheduled instead to take part in an abbreviated dry run Thursday after super-cold liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen propellants are drained from the launcher.

Excellent Shape For Voyage — The three crewmen, who faced more practice flying in spacecraft trainers today, passed their next-to-last major medical examination Tuesday and were declared fit for flight.

"The crew appears to be in excellent physical shape," reported Dr. Charles A. Berry, chief astronaut physician. "They look amazingly relaxed as of today."

The astronauts were scheduled for a final major medical checkup July 11 and a brief one a few hours before their July 16 launch.

At Houston Tuesday, Christopher C. Kraft, chief of Apollo Flight Operations, said flight directors are going to be ready for the launching—"no question about it."

But the Injury List Continues

Autos, Laws Almost Eliminate Fireworks Deaths

The automobile has made the fourth of July holiday an occa- sion for going places rather than staying home and shooting fire- works.

This factor and the enactment of a variety of laws have come close to eliminating fireworks deaths during Independence Day celebrations. But the crack of fireworks explosions is still heard throughout the land and Americans continue to be in- jured, sometimes severely.

In 1963, the American Medical Association listed 466 fireworks fatalities.

In recent years, Associated Press compilations have noted one or two even no deaths.

But bootleggers of pyrotech- nics continue to peddle their wares.

A spokesman for the National Fire Protection Association said: "We believe injuries run about 5,000 in the July 4 peri- od."

The association has written a model statute, which permits the use of cap pistols and canes with caps on the end and allows authorized public displays of fireworks.

Eighteen states, with 46 per cent of the nation's population have adopted this model law or similar legislation. They are Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware Georgia, Illinois, Maine, Mary- land, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Is- land, Vermont and West Virgin- ia.

Eight states—Alabama, Flori- da, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Oregon, Utah, and Wisconsin— have modified versions of the model law, but they also allow sparklers. They contain 17 per cent of the population.

Nine states and the District of Columbia allow what are known as Class C fireworks. These are less powerful than some of the heavy noise- and fire-makers and include spar- klers, small firecrackers and Roman candles. These states—

Colorado, Idaho, Kentucky, Mon- tana, North Dakota, South Caro- lina, Texas, Virginia and Wyo- ming—contain 13 per cent of the population.

Five states—California, Kan- sas, Nebraska, New Mexico and Washington, holding 13 per cent of the population—allow local bootlegging by persons for their own use.

The bootleggers bring the fire- works from a state with liberal controls to a state with strict laws.

Michigan permits only the least dangerous fireworks. But there is heavy traffic in illegal fireworks from Canada, espe- cially through Detroit.

Two states, Nevada and Ha- waii, have virtually no state reg- ulation.

"The law, and enforcement of the law, while usually at the local level, is quite spotty," said the NFPA spokesman.

"Bootlegging seems to be on the increase. The problem is commercial bootlegging and of enforcing authorities to decide which of the Class C fireworks can be sold."

Eight states, with 10 per cent of the nation's population, per- mit all Class C fireworks. They are Louisiana, Mississippi, Mis- souri, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Tennessee, Alaska and Arkan- sas.

The passage vote was a close one, with 210 in favor and 205 opposed, and an estimated three-quarters of the Republi- cans swinging behind the Ad- ministration for the passage.

The Congressman stated that he did not swing in favor of the extension of the tax until: "I received assurance from the Administration, Chairman of the House Ways and Means Com- mittee, and the Republican and Democratic leadership that a meaningful tax reform package will be put before Congress be- fore the mid-August recess."

Mexico also is a source of sup- ply.

Capt. Meara Wins DSC; Was Killed in Vietnam

Capt. William D. Meara Jr., who was killed in action in Vietnam on Nov. 2, 1968, has been posthumously presented the nation's second highest award, the Distinguished Service Cross.

The award was accepted by the late Captain's wife, Mrs. Margaret Meara from Major General Charles S. O'Malley Jr., commanding general of the military district of Washington.

Captain Meara was the son of Col. and Mrs. William D. Meara of Poughkeepsie. He was the nephew of John W. Meara of Lucas Avenue Extension and Richard C. Meara of Rhinebeck. John Meara is a former resident district engineer for the State Department of Public Works.

Mrs. Meara also accepted the Bronze Star and Purple Heart for her husband.

The citation accompanying the Distinguished Service Cross reads:

"For extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations involving conflict with an armed hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam: Captain Meara distinguished himself by exceptionally valorous actions on 2 November 1968 while commanding his company on a reconnaissance-in-force mission south of Landing Zone Billie.

"As his unit was returning to the landing zone, one platoon suddenly came under intense fire from a numerically superior North Vietnamese Army force and was severed completely from the remainder of the company. Captain Meara immediately turned his lead elements around to go to the aid of the besieged platoon. Approaching the battle area, the relief column also came under heavy small arms fire from enemy bunkers to their front.

Captain Meara deployed his troops and moved among their positions, directing their fire, shouting words of encouragement and checking for casualties.

After he had prepared his company for an attack, he and his point man led an assault on the first bunker in their path. Firing their weapons and hurling grenades, they charged and destroyed the emplacement, killing its occupants.

Despite the fierce hostile fire, the two men continued their furious onslaught until the point man was felled by sniper fire as they advanced on another fortification.

"Captain Meara instantly placed a heavy volley on the Communists and attempted to reach his comrade. Braving the enemy barrage, he courageously persisted in his efforts until he was mortally wounded.

Captain Meara's extraordinary heroism and devotion to duty, at the cost of his life, were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army."

$1,000 Bail For Man Facing 11 Charges

SAUGERTIES mishap on Ulster Avenue, Saugerties, Monday night. The charges filed by Saugerties police included driving while intoxicated, failure to keep right, imprudent speed, resisting arrest and reckless driving. The warrants listed charges of criminal possession of a dangerous drug, fourth degree; criminal possession of an implement to administer a drug; disorderly conduct, harassment; obstruction of government administration and criminal mischief.

George H. Wallin, represented by Attorney Francis Martocci, was given an adjournment to July 15 when he appeared Tuesday night before Village Justice David Goble. The arrest by Saugerties Village police on five motor vehicle violations and the subsequent warrants issued in connection with drugs allegedly found in his possession at the time was the result of a traffic

Bank Dividend

In an advertisement for the Roundout Savings Bank, 300 Broadway, dividend information should have read "deposits made on or before July 10th will draw dividends from July 1." The advertisement appeared in Tuesday's edition and was a statement of condition at the close of business June 30, 1969.

Village Patrolman Marvin Osborn said that while Wallin was being held in the village lockup, he created a disturbance by setting fire to his mattress and flooding the cell. He was arrested at the scene of the traffic mishap by Patrolmen Harry Vickery and Edgar Peterson. He was subsequently transferred to county jail.

Mayone Will Run in 13th

KINGSTON under the Republican and Conservative banners. In order to run, Mayone would either have to go under an "independent" designation or try to have Sim's name removed from the ballot in order to run as a Republican.

Mayone told The Freeman that his candidacy is "in the works" with only legal technicalities to be worked out. The technicalities arose because the original candidate, Titus "Bernie" Sims, who re-elected city and county chairmen, Melvin Mones and Albert Spada to see what can be worked out.

Hearing Set On Amendments To Ordinance

RED HOOK corrections in wording in order to make the document legally binding.

A public hearing will be held July 15 by the Town of Red Hook on amendments to the new mobile home ordinance, according to Supervisor Warren Simmons.

Details of changes in wording and amendments will be released shortly.

The major addition to the ordinance, which was passed a month ago, will be provisions for mobile homes on individual sites, outside of trailer courts.

The purpose for this addition, according to Simmons, will be to avoid "conflicting" with upcoming general zoning proposals which will be made public sometime this summer.

There will be stringent requirements as to footage and setbacks for individual sites, his arrest. He had practiced in the Albany area for over 50 years.

Doctor Guilty On Health Law

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — Dr. Daniel O'Keefe, 81, pleaded guilty in police court Tuesday to eight of nine counts of violating the Public Health Law.

O'Keefe, arrested during a drug roundup in the city May 7, will be sentenced on the eight charges on July 7.

On the remaining charge he will appear in State Supreme Court Thursday. O'Keefe surrendered his license to practice medicine to the state Board of Regents after his arrest. He had practiced in the Albany area for over 50 years.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened firm in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange today.

Cautious talk was beginning that the market may be about to embark upon a summer rally. Strength stemmed from the market's small advances of the past three days, plus the fact July is a favorite reinvestment month. Some buying support may come from bargain hunting in view of the market's prolonged torggan.

Steels were mixed. Autos gained. Oils showed no definite trend. Chemicals moved higher.

Shortly after the opening the UPI stock market indicator showed a gain of 0.15 per cent with 347 issues traded. There were 179 advances and 74 declines. The Dow Jones industrial average was a fractional gainer.

Bethlehem gave up 1/4 to 32 1/2. U.S. Steel was unchanged at 41 1/2.

Quotations by Hornblower & Weeks, Hemphill, Noyes, members of the New York Stock Exchange. Kingston representatives, Paul Coon, David Hoffman and Theodore Peck.

Highland Elects Chaisson

HIGHLAND Highland Central School District's Board of Education met Tuesday night for their annual organizational meeting and elected Silvio Chaisson to a one year term as president of the Board.

Chaisson was the former vice president of the Board of Education and succeeds John Elia as president.

Benjamin Bragg was elected vice president of the Board while Robert Demarest was re-appointed district clerk. Demarest is also business manager for the Highland School District.

Mrs. Vivian Marone was appointed to a one year term as district tax collector.

The Board withheld appointment of the district treasurer, pending investigation that a school district employee, rather than an outside person, might better handle the position. The Board felt that the work of the district treasurer should be correlated within the business office of the school district.

Following the organizational meeting, the Board held its regular monthly meeting, with routine appointments and resignations handled.

Check Flames In Clintondale At Old School

CLINTONDALE Firefighters from the local and Modena fire companies on Tuesday battled flames that threatened to destroy the old Clintondale School. The origin of the blaze was not immediately determined.

A dispatcher at the County Fire Control Center noted that Clintondale firemen in charge of Chief Harry Honk were dispatched to the scene of the blaze at 7:49 a.m. and later through mutual aid volunteer fire units from Modena were sent to assist.

Firemen reported back in service at 10:46 a.m. It was reported the building had been used for meetings of local organizations in recent years. The Fire Control Center also reported Rosendale firemen quelled a brush fire Tuesday afternoon.

Poll on ABM: An Even Chance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time since it became an issue, President Nixon's request for an antimissile system stands an even chance of winning senate approval, a new UPI poll showed today.

The latest canvass of the senate's 100 members showed those for and those against the idea split 48 to 48. Four senators are firmly undecided. This marks the first time in several polls that proponents of the Safeguard Antibalistic Missile (ABM) System showed strength equal to that of their opponents. The first UPI poll of the Senate on the subject, taken in early March, showed 46 opposed, 20 in favor and 25 undecided.

Thus the ABM supporters have picked up 28 votes in four months, compared with only two for those against a missile defense system.

The senate is scheduled to begin debate next week of a military spending bill which contains $794 million for the Safeguard. As modified by Nixon, the system would include missile sites in North Dakota and Montana for deployment of missiles which could protect existing minute-missile sites against incoming attacks by other missiles.

Impact on Court Martials

Army Places Hopes on 'Burger Court'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird originally wrote the Justice Department suggesting the Supreme Court be asked for a rehearing. Laird contended the decision "overturns almost 200 years of practice and law."

After considerable consultation between U.S. Solicitor Gen. Erwin N. Griswold and Maj. Gen. Kenneth J. Hodson, the Army's judge advocate general, it was decided not to go through with the petition for rehearing, sources said.

The main reasons were that very few such petitions are granted and because the case could not be heard again, in any rule, until the Supreme Court's October session.

The court headed by now-retired Chief Justice Earl Warren ruled 5-3 that servicemen may be tried in military courts only if their offenses were "service connected." Warren voted with the majority.

The case involved Army Sgt. James F. O'Callahan who was sentenced to 10 years in a military prison after a court martial convicted him of attempted rape in Hawaii.

Advised by his legal aides, O'Callahan had requested a writ of habeas corpus.

SBA's Disadvantaged Program

$85,000 Card Star Gets $135,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Small Business Administration guaranteed a $135,000 bank loan per cent guarantee March 7, three days after he applied. The guarantee represented about 18 per cent of the $1.3 million in total minority business loans made through the SBA's minority enterprise program rather than the stricter conventional business loan program.

"It never even came up," said the $85,000-a-year star of the past two World Series. "Not even once that I can recall." Brock said all he sought was conventional SBA financing that would allow him to open an automobile dealership in heavily Negro East St. Louis.

"He is a Negro," Pfeffer said, "and even that can be low." Pfeffer said it would not have made much difference if conventional programs had been used. Conventional SBA programs carry stiffer requirements, an SBA Washington official explained. Collateral is usually required, the loan recipient must furnish a can range up to 50 per cent. Under the minority program, 15 per cent is the usual cash equal interest.

Saugerties News

Service Awards Presented at Girl Scout Meet

SAUGERTIES
Service awards were presented recently at the June meeting of Saugerties Neighborhood of Girl Scouts held in the meeting room of the Saugerties Savings Bank.

Several new publications of help to leaders were shown, including one on how to arrange for trips as well as one describing in detail a planned historic hike around the Town of Saugerties. The hike includes many points of historic interest.

The uniform exchange was explained. Any girl who is moving up to the next age level is requested to fill out a form so that her uniform will be made available to girls requiring one of that level. Mrs. Walter Hackett, chairman will give anyone information about its operation. The association requests that anyone having a used uniform call Mrs. Hackett rather than donating uniforms to a rummage sale. These uniforms should only be worn by registered Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Richard Holmes was unanimously elected to serve as assistant neighborhood chairman until next April, when she will assume the duties now filled by Mrs. Harry Hoffman, present chairman.

Mrs. P. J. Bjornseth was presented her five-year numeral for service to Girl Scouting. Miss Katherine Garrison and Mrs. Robert Kolb were presented ten-year service numerals. Mrs. Kolb was presented a certificate of appreciation for her five years' service as neighborhood cookie chairman.

The five Brownie troops who attended Brownie Day at Forsyth Park, Kingston, reported that they had a very good day despite the inclement weather which kept the majority of troops at home. Other activities in the Saugerties neighborhood have been bridging activities, teas for mothers, fly-up ceremonies and courts of awards.

Mrs. E. Robert Johnson is trying to arrange for car pools to be set up for transportation to the Ulster County Council Day Camp to be held in Sawkill this year. She will be calling parents of girls who are registered from various areas of the neighborhood. The dates for day camp are July 21-31.

The Saugerties Girl Scout Association is a part of the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, a participating member of the Ulster County Community Chest.

West Shokan

District Deputy James E. Platt attended the meeting in Shokan. Two new members were admitted with full membership — Frank Snyder and Ashborn Istad.

A $10 donation was made by the lodge to the program of improvements to the Methodist Parsonage.

Koldin-Levine Wedding

Miss Susan Terri Koldin, daughter of Mrs. Frieda Koldin of Syracuse and the late Leo Koldin, became the bride of Benjamin D. Levine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Levine of Kingston, on Saturday, June 28, at Hotel Syracuse Country House, Syracuse.

Given in marriage by her brother, Malcolm Koldin of Syracuse, the bride selected a gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace, designed with an empire bodice, jewel neckline and bishop sleeves. The bell-shaped skirt was accented with a detachable train. A Camelot headpiece of lace and seed pearls held her illusion veil and she carried her confirmation Bible covered with a white orchid and Stephanotis.

Miss Susan Cohen, cousin of the bride, Detroit, Mich., was maid of honor. Attendants were Miss Jacalyn Levine, Kingston, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Dianne Suskind, Syracuse; and Mrs. Daniel Labowitz, Albany, cousin of the bride.

Peter J. Cerasaro of Kingston was best man. Ushers were Gery Yoh, Reading, Pa.; David Miller, Bayside; and Charles Axelrod, Stamford, Conn.

After the wedding a reception for 200 guests took place at Hotel Syracuse Country House, Syracuse.

Marriage Vows Taken

Doing the Right Thing

PATRIOTIC PROCEDURES FOR 4TH OF JULY

The 4th of July holiday is upon us, and once again we will be celebrating in the traditional way — with parades, fireworks, and displaying the American flag. Most of us take these patriotic events for granted, but there are definite rules governing the following those rules makes our respect more evident and our participation more meaningful. Do you know the right thing to do in each of the following situations?

Q. When the National Anthem is played before a 4th of July rally or sports event, what is the correct procedure for the spectators?

A. Men remove their hats, and stand at attention. Women also rise quietly.

Q. What should spectators do when the flag passes in front of them during a parade?

A. Men stand at attention and hold their hats over their hearts with their right hands. If they do not have a hat, they place their right palm over their heart. Women stand in the same way, or they may keep their hands at their sides.

Q. May youngsters decorate their bicycles with flags?

A. They must use red, white and blue ribbons or bunting to wind in the wheels, wrap handlebars, etc. They may, however, fix small flags in an upright position on the handlebars.

Q. May women make costumes of flags for the occasion?

A. No. They may make red, white and blue costumes simulating the flag, but real flags should not be worn as part of clothing.

Q. At what hours is the flag flown?

A. Sunrise to sunset. If sunrise is very early, it may be raised at a more convenient hour, but it should be lowered when the sun goes down. It may, however, be flown at night for patriotic celebrations.

Q. May the flag be used as a tablecloth for a picnic?

A. No. The flag may never be used in such a way that other objects are placed on it.

Q. How can spectators watching a parade cross the street?

A. They should stay on one side if possible. If they must cross, they should wait for a space between sections and then cross quickly.

Q. If flags must be flown at half-mast, what is the proper procedure in raising and lowering them?

A. The flag is raised to the tip of the pole and then back to half-mast. When lowered, it is raised to the tip before being taken down.

Hospital Benefit Draws 240 Persons

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON — A crowd of more than 240 persons was present at "Les Bal des Fleurs" at Blithewood Saturday, a spring ball on the picturesque spot overlooking the Hudson River.

The ball was a benefit put on by friends of Northern Dutchess Hospital.

The event was held on the former Zabrisky estate on the Bard College campus. Mrs. Frederick Zipser was general chairman, Mrs. Lytell Hull and Mrs. Vincent Astor honorary chairmen.

Beekman Arms catered the dinner following a cocktail hour. Jerome Rabinowitz orchestra provided music for dancing.

Formal gardens and terraces on the grounds provided the setting. Flowers were set everywhere about the estate. Dancing in the gardens under the moon was indulged in by many guests.

DRY CLEANER AND CONSUMER

United States consumers spend more than two and a half billion dollars annually for drycleaning services, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist. Considering the quantity and variety of articles a dry-cleaner is called upon to put through the complex processes of cleaning and re-finishing, it is amazing that so few things really go wrong.

This is a tribute both to the manufacturing skills of the apparel and textile industries and the processing skills of the professional dry-cleaner. But even with their combined technological know-how, results will not be completely satisfactory unless the consumer assumes a share of the responsibility.

Most people get along well with their drycleaners. They realize that lowest services are not the same as deluxe services at higher prices; that some types of clothing cost more to clean than others, because a greater amount of time is necessary to do a satisfactory job. But while the consumer has, in general, a pretty good understanding of what the dry-cleaner can do, awareness of some of the things he cannot do is of equal importance.

Stains
The Drycleaner Can't... remove all stains in all cases. Stains that remain too long in a fabric tend to become so hard-set that they cannot be removed satisfactorily, or with safety to the fabric.

The Consumer Can... take stained garments to the dry-cleaners as soon after soiling as possible. Fresh stains are more easily removed than old ones.

THE DRYCLEANER CAN'T... guess that there are latent stains in a fabric. Spills from gingerale other types of light-colored sweetened beverages are often unnoticeable when dry. Unless these are removed before drycleaning, however, the heat used for solvent finishing will turn these invisible stains into permanent brown ones.

THE CONSUMER CAN... call the drycleaner's attention to such invisible stains when she is aware of them. A note attached to the stained garment as soon as occurred can be very helpful. When the item is sent out for drycleaning the note will serve as a visible reminder of the now invisible stain — and the drycleaner can act accordingly.

THE DRYCLEANER CAN'T... be clairvoyant about special instructions on hangtags that have been thrown away, or on permanent labels sewn inside of pockets or in other obscure places. Lacking such specific information, the drycleaner will give the item the usual processing treatment and may thus, unwittingly, do harm.

THE CONSUMER CAN... save pertinent hangtags and labels, and pass along to the drycleaner any special care instructions.

THE DRYCLEANER CAN'T... be responsible for product deficiencies that may lead to failure in drycleaning. For example, bonded (laminated) fabrics are improving all the time, but some may separate or shrink excessively when cleaned. The drycleaner has no way of knowing in advance that this is going to happen.

THE CONSUMER CAN... call the manufacturer's attention to any such performance failures.

Claims

THE CONSUMER CAN... accept a fair adjustment justment value based on replacement cost as set forth in the National Claims Guide for Consumer Textile Products, published by the National Institute of Drycleaning, Silver Spring, Md. Single copy free of charge. Additional copies 25 cents each. (This is the same principle used in evaluations)

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When you make draperies at home, put part of a snap at each bottom corner. Place the other part of the snap several feet up on the wrong side of the seam.

Then when you are cleaning the floor, it's a simple matter to snap the draperies up out of the way.

Dear Heloise:

When an orange juice squeezer is not handy, I invert an individual serving-size gelatin mold in a small bowl, place the fruit on top of the mold and twist.

The molds I use are metal and have vertical grooves. Sure works great for me as a substitute juicer.

Karen Brown.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

If you're like me, you can never hold onto the extra change in your purse after buying groceries and paying bills.

I never could, until I decided to freeze it in my freezer!

Then if I started to spend it, I'd have a chance to really think if it was absolutely necessary while I waited for the money to thaw out. Besides, I always have cold cash on hand for emergencies!

Betty Daniell

Dear Heloise:

Someone should tell newlyweds to purchase extra face cloths to wash with their towel sets.

After five years of marriage I've found that the bath and hand towels are still in good shape, but the wash cloths are all worn out.

'Tis too late then to match the original sets, so solid colors have to be substituted.

Veronica Blankenship

Dear Heloise:

My mother-in-law, who is a wonderful cook, gave me this hint. It's a recipe for instant Thousand Island Dressing.

If you keep a jar of sweet pickle relish in your refrigerator, all you need to do is mix two parts mayonnaise (or salad dressing), one part ketchup and one part relish, and you have a dressing that is hard to beat.

You can mix up as little or as much as you want, since it keeps well in the fridge.

Two Woodstock Men to be Honored at Testimonial

WOODSTOCK
Two of Woodstock's most prominent citizens — Frank A. Benson and Anthony J. (Tony) DeLisio — will be honored at a testimonial dinner Tuesday, Aug. 5, at the Gov. Clinton Hotel in Kingston.

Michael Mottolose, president of the Woodstock Country Club, and general chairman of the dinner, said it is sponsored by a committee known as the Woodstock Country Club Friends of Frank Benson and Tony de Lizio.

The testimonial is being tendered to recognize the long and distinguished service to golf and the community by both Benson and De Lizio.

A nationally prominent golf personality will be the guest speaker, Mottolose said.

As majority stockholders of the Woodstock Property Company which owns the Woodstock Country Club property, Benson and De Lizio recently negotiated an easement with the Town Board of the Town of Woodstock which will insure golf in perpetuity at the scenic nine-hole layout.

Benson, who is 90 years old, is president of the Property Company and vice president of the Woodstock branch of the Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties.

40-Year Resident

A native of Weehawken, N. J., he rose to the position of executive vice president of Armour Packing of Chicago before his retirement. He has been a resident of Woodstock for nearly 40 years. A long time member of the Woodstock Country Club Board of Governors, he served several terms as club treasurer. He has also been involved in numerous civic and fraternal organizations, including the annual Christmas Fund campaign in Woodstock.

De Lizio, who is one of the most widely known personalities in Ulster County golf circles, is popularly known as "Mr. Country Club." He served 11 terms as WCC president, more than any other member in history, and has been a member of the Board of Governors for 20 years.

Major Contributions
De Lizio has made major contributions to the progress of the Woodstock club and has been one of the sponsors of the Woodstock Open since its inception. A native of Brooklyn, he was a Wall Street investment and securities counselor prior to his retirement. He moved to Woodstock in 1941 and has been active in Woodstock Country Club. He was recently appointed vice president of the new governing board at the Benedictine Hospital in Kingston.

Early in his career, De Lizio was associated with Edison Electric, Cities Service and the foreign exchange division of the Guaranty Trust Company. In 1931 he joined Stuber and Company in New York and still retains an interest in the business. De Lizio is also president and one of the founders of the Ulster County Seniors Golf Association. Other members of the testimonial committee are Anthony Pizzarelli, former club president; Charles J. Tiano, Free man Sports Editor; and Dr. Witt and Joseph Fitzsimmons, mittee. Mrs. Pizzarelli heads the Arnold Broggi, who will serve as committee treasurer. Pizzarelli is chairman of the are co-chairmen of the gifts arrangements committee. Invitations to the testimonial will be in the mails in the next few days.

Radio Stations
WASHINGTON (AP)—The licenses of two Poughkeepsie radio stations have been renewed for one year instead of the usual three, the Federal Communications Commission announced.
In addition, Star Broadcasting Corporation, licensee of the stations, WKIP and WSPK-FM, may be fined $10,000.
The Commission said that it was granting the one-year renewal so that it could observe operation of the stations in view of "many past deficiencies."
The fine could be for alleged violations of commission regulations, chiefly engineering and technical which Star Broadcasting said it had not willfully done.
The broadcasting corporation has 30 days in which to reply in reference to the fine.

Viet Veteran Is Jailed on Drug Charges

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A recently discharged Vietnam veteran has been jailed in lieu of $5,000 bail after his arraignment on three narcotics charges.

Theodore J. Kuhaneck, 20, of the Erie County Town of Collins, was arrested Tuesday for criminal possession of opium and marijuana and selling marijuana to a minor, sheriff's deputies said.
They said Kuhaneck told them he brought the drugs back from Vietnam.

Migrant Care Center In Red Hook Opens 15th

RED HOOK — The Migrant Day Care Center under the auspices of the newly formed Northern Dutchess Community Services will open at the Catholic Workers Farm in Tivoli July 15, according to director Mrs. Frank Blum.

A recent meeting of the Migrant Committee was held, and it was decided that application for funds for building repairs would be made to the Office of Economic Opportunity, with the Rev. Jack Wortman of Pleasant Valley acting as liaison. The Rev. Roger Leonard of Red Hook assured The Freeman that Mrs. Ann George of the Department of Agriculture and Markets said federal funds would be available for the running of a migrant day care center. Funds are channeled through the OEO from the federal department.

A general public meeting set for Monday night was postponed until early "in the autumn," according to Mrs. Sidney Mead of Tivoli. Reasons given were the unavailability of nominated persons for office due to vacations, and the lack of concrete results thus far in the community interviews. "We would rather have a good, complete job finished on the interviews than rush into something unprepared," she said.

Mrs. Judy Priven of Red Hook is chairman of the Poverty section of the NDCC. Work by autonomous committees will not be hampered by postponing the public meeting.

Overlook Radio Society Completes Field Day

ANNUAL EVENT—Overlook Radio Society joined other radio amateurs across the United States last weekend in a two-day project to test its emergency preparedness. Complete two-way radio stations were established, apart from commercial power, to simulate the aftermath of some disaster such as an earthquake or hurricane. The operation began Saturday 3 p.m. atop Ohayo Mountain which became the emergency communications center, complete with three radio stations, an emergency generating and wiring system, antenna systems for seven different amateur bands, sleeping quarters, and provisions. About 25 members were involved in the operation in which 1,150 contacts were made with more than 40 states, most of the Canadian provinces and several

United States territories including the Canal Zone. Planning for the event occupied a portion of each monthly meeting from January to June, committees were established and responsibilities designated. The prime motivation for the effort was the preparation of radio amateurs to respond to an emergency situation requiring communications into and out of the Hudson Valley.

The appointment of a new leader and increased interest in aesthetic values is responsible for the rejuvenation of the Woodstock Tree Trust, and will better avail itself of the public support it so much needs and deserves.

Ned W. Buoymaster, a Woodstock citizen of nine years, and former president of Ferroxcube Corp., Saugerties, will serve as chairman of the Tree Trust Management Committee.

Organized in 1960 by the Woodstock Association for the Conservation and Improvement of the Township, Inc., and the Woodstock Garden Club, as a tax-exempt, trust fund to gather public donations, it started its work in 1961. In 1962, it sponsored the creation of an official Town Shade Tree Fund, and for eight years has quietly carried out a steadily increasing program of protection and maintenance of the public tree stand. The Woodstock Tree Trust is concerned only with trees which are of public interest, like those along highways and in parks, with the exclusion of trees on private lands.

Of the 1,000 Woodstockers who responded to the Woodstock Association's recent questionnaire, 90 per cent agreed that the shade trees along roads are an important asset to the town.

The Town Board also is well aware of this growing concern. As early as 1956, the Town of citizens to protect what we have while it is still here, as Tree Ordinance.

Witnessed by the increased tax funds that have been allotted to the Shade Tree Fund. It is the combination of these funds with donations, made by the citizens directly to the Woodstock Tree Trust, that have allowed the steadily increasing tree-care program.

The Woodstock Tree Trust works hand in hand with the public utilities, the state, county and town highway department, and is the right hand of the town in executing the work for the town's official Shade Tree Fund.

As early as 1956, the Town Board of Woodstock passed a telephone service has required more and more heavier lines. Some of the poles, particularly around the Village Square, have become veritable eyesores and now dominate the scene. Television has required the addition of even more hardware.

A new tree cannot be planted in line with the existing trees to remedy the loss, because in growing up the new tree would interfere with the lines. Seldom is a new tree set far enough on the adjacent property to stay clear from the lines, and, when done, the effect is nowhere equivalent to what was enjoyed before.

Only one force can change things for the better. This force is public opinion. The Tree Trust wishes to champion public expression of desires to maintain the beauty of roads by stimulating the utilities in their professional goal of putting lines underground, or "back-feeding" homes by moving their unsightly lines from the highways to the rear of buildings.

Malden Woman Honored at Fete

One of the loveliest events to grace the scenic hamlet of High Woods in many a day was a surprise family and birthday party in honor of Mrs. Josephine Lowe of Malden-on-Hudson, tendered recently by her grandson, Ralph H. Simmons Jr.

More than 75 members of Mrs. Lowe's immediate family participated in the festivities. Everyone enjoyed the quietness and serenity of the spacious lawns and beautiful surroundings. It was a time for renewing old friendships, for honoring Mrs. Lowe, and for visiting with nieces, nephews and cousins who seldom meet. Guests were present from Ballston Spa, Scotia, Schenectady, Hyde Park, Poughkeepsie, Kingston, Saugerties, Malden-on-Hudson, New York City, New Jersey and Connecticut.

A buffet dinner was served on the screened patio. The flowers which were on the table were presented to Mrs. Luella Clair, sister of Mrs. Lowe, and to Mrs. Doris Valk, niece of Mrs. Lowe, in honor of their birthdays.

A decorated cake and coffee were served on the outdoor patio. Mrs. Lowe opened her many fine and useful gifts on the lawn as everyone gathered in the shade under the century-old maple tree.

Rebekah Lodge, Odd Fellows Close Season

SAUGERTIES Members of Queen of the Catskill Mountain Rebekah Lodge 36, together with the Odd Fellows, last week celebrated the last meeting of the season with a covered dish supper.

A new insurance plan was explained to both the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs. Information will be sent to each member.

On July 10 a past noble grands meeting will be held at Agape Rebekah Lodge, Bearsville at 6:30 p.m.

Fall sessions of the lodge will begin on September 4.

Present at the meeting were Letitia Springer of Excelsior Lodge 7, Poughkeepsie, who now resides temporarily in Florida, and Florence Gippert, past assembly musician and other guests.

The rummage sale will be held at West Saugerties Hall on July 18 and 19 at 9 a.m.

A few gifts were distributed by Anna Yakin, past district deputy, to members of her staff.

Noble Grand, Lillian Compitello, hopes that members will cooperate with her in September for the a handmade patchwork quilt project.

At the close of the meeting she read a poem entitled Salt of the Earth. She requested the members, whenever possible, to try and visit with the sick throughout the summer months.

WOODSTOCK A membership drive is well underway with community cooperation, it was reported at the recent meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Company No. 3, Lake Hill.

It was reported at the meeting that the family dinner held last month was successful.

The auxiliary received a letter from Dr. Norman N. Burg concerning the drug abuse and the hippie situation in Woodstock. The auxiliary went on record that they would support the proposed community council for the study of drug addiction problems.

The three Girl Scout troops, cadets, brownies and girl scouts, sponsored by the auxiliary recently won first place at its camporee.

A rummage and bake sale is scheduled July 5 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the firehouse. Articles may be left at the firehouse.

Jackson's Biggest Worry Is Howard

(By United Press International)

It's far too early for Reggie Jackson to worry about Babe Ruth and Roger Maris. The man for him to watch is Frank Howard.

Jackson hit his 30th homer of the season Tuesday night to go 12 games ahead of Ruth and four ahead of Maris in their record seasons. But of greater concern to Jackson should be the fact that it looks like Howard is off on another tear, when I get cold I starve to death. The 6-foot, 8-inch, 260-pound Howard, who has been in a slump for the last two weeks, banged out six hits including his 25th and 26th homers of the season to lead the Washington Senators to 4-1 and 7-5 victories over the Cleveland Indians. I guess I'm a typical streak hitter," said Howard. "When I'm on a tear I hit good. I get cold I starve to death. All Howard has to do is lay off the bad ball," commented manager Ted Williams, the game's No. 1 authority on hitting. He swings a strong bat and when he hits the ball, it's goodbye. All he has to do is make contact."

The Seattle Pilots defeated the Oakland Athletics 7-1 despite Jackson's homer, the Detroit Tigers bombed the Boston Red Sox 12-4, the New York Yankees shaded the Baltimore Orioles 10-9, the Minnesota Twins beat the Chicago White Sox 10-5 and the California Angels downed the Kansas City Royals 9-3 in other American League games.

Jackson's homer sent the Athletics off to a 1-0 lead in the first inning but the Pilots rallied for seven runs in the fifth to win behind Gene Brabender's seven-hitter. Ten men batted in the big inning which was featured by a double by John Kennedy, a triple by John Donaldson and a three-run homer by Don Mincher.

Tom Tresh drove in four runs with two homers, a double and a single and Jim Northrup drove in four with a homer and a triple for the Tigers, who dealt Ray Jarvis his fourth loss. Pat Dobson allowed eight hits, including homers by Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith, but went the distance for his third victory.

Frank Fernandez's three-run homer in the seventh rallied the Yankees to their victory over the Orioles despite seven runs batted in by Boog Powell. Powell hit a two-run homer in the first inning, a two-run single in the fifth and a three-run homer in the seventh. Gene Michael and Bill Robinson homered for the Yankees.

Rich Reese hit two homers, a double and a single to lead a 13-hit Minnesota attack which also included homers by Leo Cardeas and Ted Uhlaender and a triple and a double by Rod Carew. Dick Woodson, who shut out the White Sox for the last 5 2/3 innings, won his fifth game against three losses. Jim Spencer drove in three runs with a single and a double and Bill Voss knocked in two runs in an 11-hit attack which brought George Brunet his fourth victory for the Angels. The Angels wrapped up the game with a five-run seventh inning during which Spencer hit a two-run double.

NEW YORK YANKEES' infielder Bobby Cox tries to steal home but it's too late as Baltimore Orioles catcher Ellie Hendricks makes the tag for the out in the fourth inning at Yankee Stadium. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Cards Draw Aces Every Pay Day

(By United Press International)

Payday in St. Louis has a certain effect on the high-priced Cardinals.

The Cardinals, probably the highest paid team per man in the major leagues, have this thing about paydays. They don't lose on the 1st or 15th of the month.

At least they haven't in two years and they kept the streak going Tuesday night by whipping the New York Mets twice, 4-1 and 8-5.

Steve Carlton pitched a three-hitter in the first game and doubles by Mike Shannon and Steve Huntz produced all the scoring in a five-run fifth inning of the second game as the Cardinals stretched their pay-day winning streak to 22, dating back to August, 1967.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 7-4, Atlanta shaded Cincinnati 5-4 in 10 innings, Montreal routed Chicago 11-4, Los Angeles downed Houston 4-1 and San Francisco nipped San Diego 5-4.

Vada Pinson drove in two runs in the first game and Carlton struck out nine en route to his ninth victory. In the fifth inning of the second game, the Cardinals trailed 3-2 when Curt Flood tripled with one out and Joe Torre walked with two out. Shannon doubled in both runners before reliever Don Cardwell walked Tim McCarver and Julian Javier, setting the stage for Huntz' three-run double.

"That's been the difference this year," said Cards' Manager Red Schoendienst. "We haven't been scoring with runners on and two out. We did it tonight and that was the story."

Cleon Jones went 3-for-5 for the Mets to wrest the NL batting lead from Pittsburgh's Matty Alou. Cleon's eye-trouble apparently is not that serious. Rick Joseph's two-run double capped a six-run fourth inning and powered the Phils over the Pirates, stretching the Phillies' winning streak to eight games.

Joseph's double came after the Phils had rallied from a 4-0 on an error and Maury Wills deficit to tie on a walk and singles by Mike Ryan, Terry Harmon, Tony Taylor and Cookie Rojas. Johnny Briggs

Ed Spiezio's throwing error to Sonny Jackson's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the 10th inning gave the Braves their triumph over the Reds. Orlando Cepeda walked, Clete Boyer singled and Tony Gonzalez walked before Jackson's hit. The Reds led 4-0 until the eighth when the Braves rallied for three runs before tying the game in the ninth on Tito Francona's pinch-hit single.

Bob Bailey had three hits and drove in three runs to highlight a 15-hit Montreal attack as the Expos stunned the Cubs. Montreal, celebrating Canada's Dominion Day holiday, erupted for five runs in both the third and fourth inning to score back-to-back victories for the first time in their history.

Rookie Steve Renko, who had two hits and scored twice, recorded his first major league victory.

Manny Mota's three-run inside-the-park homer in the seventh inning snapped a 1-1 tie and gave the Dodgers their victory over the Astros. With

TIANO'S TOPICS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Baseball fans in major league cities across the country are picking their all-time teams in conjunction with baseball's centennial in 1969.

Then will come the all-time composite major league team from both leagues. And, eventually, the biggest pick of them all—the No. 1 all-time major leaguer.

Is there any other choice than Babe Ruth? "How about Ty Cobb," scream the folks in Detroit.

What about Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb?

DESPITE COBB'S fantastic career batting average of .367 (for 24 years!), we take the Babe strictly on power and pitching ability. Baseball fans are prone to overlook Babe's brilliant pitching record and some are not even aware of the fact.

As a left handed pitcher, Ruth won 93 games and lost only 44, with back to back 20-game seasons in 1916 (23-12) and 1917 (24-12). From 1922 until his retirement with the old Boston Braves of the National League, the Babe slugged 714 home runs, including 15 in World Series competition. He compiled a .342 lifetime batting average for 22 seasons and had his 60 home runs was the all-time major league record for a 154 game schedule.

THE BABE TWICE hit three home runs in a World Series game, but he had more than a powerful bat and gifted arm going for him. He was the most dominant personality in the history of baseball. And he came along just in time when the stench of the Black Sox scandal still reeked from Boston to St. Louis.

THE BABE WAS the greatest power hitter in baseball history. Ty Cobb killed you with speed and the drag bunt, stolen bases and bushels of basehits, but he lacked Ruth's power.

Cobb compiled some remarkable batting statistics. He had a career high of .420 in 1911 and came back with .410 the following season. Ten years later he was able to hit .401. He played 24 years making him the most durable player in major league history.

The year 1911 found the Georgia Peach at his zenith. He set three Detroit Tiger standards that still stand—147 runs scored, 40 consecutive games hitting and 248 total hits.

Cobb, the greatest base stealer of all ages, pilfered 96 in 1915 and it remained a record until Maury Wills came along with his 104 thefts in 1962. To Wills' credit, he didn't need an asterisk. He broke Cobb's mark within 154 games.

THERE WILL BE heavy voting for Ruth, Cobb and Tris Speaker as the all-time outfield trio. Speaker, the Grey Eagle of the Cleveland Indians and others, had a lifetime BA of .344 but was not a home run hitter, even making allowances for the "dead ball" era.

Quite a trio, to be sure. But latter day greats also will figure heavily in the balloting. For example, who can say for sure that Ruth, Cobb and Speaker were superior, as a unit, to Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams and Stan Musial.

How about Willie Mays, Mickey Mantle and the still active Hank Aaron? Lots of room for debate here which we will save for some other occasion.

OUR ALL-TIME Yankee picks are strictly conventional. You start with Babe Ruth, add Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle, which in itself is a helluva all-time trio. You put Bill Dickey behind the plate and Herb Pennock and Charlie Ruffing out on the hill.

The infield has the immortal Lou Gehrig at first base; Tony Lazzeri, second; Red Rolfe, third; and Phil Rizzuto at shortstop.

Can any other city match this all-time roster? We doubt it.

ONE OF THE finest and most humorous team brochures ever to come across this desk is the Hurley Haven Softball Team "1969 Yearbook", commissioned, painted and donated by cartoonist Jack McElrath.

The edition is dedicated to Manager "Bingo" McSpirit who has compiled a lifetime record of 60 wins and 17 losses but who, philosophically, tells one and all, "it's only a game, fellows."

In thumbing the yearbook, we discover quite early that Kilroy visited the "dugout" several years ago.

McElrath devotes a page to each of the sterling Hurley Haven performers with appropriate comment, none of which will ever make public print. The statistical accomplishments of the Hurley Haven crew are amazing, but again, not printable.

A salute to Jack McElrath who handles both the paint brush and needle with considerable finesse.

British Gals At Concord

KIAMESHA LAKE, N. Y. (AP) — Three women professionals from England are invading the United States for a crack at the $36,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association's national championship at the Concord Hotel July 23-27.

Leonard E. Wirtz, executive director of the LPGA, made the announcement this week while completing final plans for the 72 hole title event at the resort's plush layout.

The foreign players are Vivien Saunders, Gwen Bradon and Elizabeth Ann Callis. The trio will arrive a week early and tune up for the LPGA event at Danbury, Conn.

The addition of the three English women increases the foreign entry for the national event to five. Margie Masters of Australia and Sandra Post, the defending LPGA champion from Canada, previously entered.

Tournament officials said the entry of the three British women marks their first competition ever in a LPGA event in America. Their previous appearances were limited to exhibitions.

Campbell Sizzling

Not too long ago Toledo's Dave Campbell said he wouldn't play in the International League. His opponents are wishing he had kept his word.

Since being convinced by the Detroit Tigers June 18 that Toledo wasn't such a bad place, Campbell has been burning up the league with his bat. He continued the spree Tuesday night with a three-run homer to lead the Mud Hens past Buffalo 6-5.

In other action, Syracuse beat Rochester 4-2, league-leading Louisville edged Columbus 4-3, and Richmond and Tidewater were postponed by rain.

Campbell's third homer in a week helped Mud Hens' starter Fred Scherman to his third victory against one loss. Scherman allowed a ninth inning bases-empty homer to Buffalo's George Smith, who hit his fifth of the season.

Syracuse got homers from Jose Vidal and Frank Tepedino in taking the Red Wings. Vidal's blast, with a man on, was his fourth of the season, while Tepedino's, a solo shot, was his tenth. Chief starter Ron Klimkowski evened his record at 5-5.

Louisville's Jerry Janeski allowed three early runs but his teammates didn't let him down. The Colonels kept pecking away at Columbus and pushed across four lone tallies in the late innings to give Janeski his 11th victory against four defeats.

The Jets' Charlie Smith had a two-run homer off Janeski, his first of the year.

Two Stakes For Dancer

GOSHEN, N.Y. (UPI)—Stanley Dancer won both stakes races on the second day of grand circuit racing at historic Goshen Tuesday, scoring with Betty Hanover in the $18,499 Debutante Stakes and Nevele Rascal in the $16,399 E.H. Harriman Challenge Cup.

Betty Hanover, the 2-year-old daughter of Dancer Hanover, won both heats of the Debutante in times of 2:03.4 and 2:01.1 and returned $3.40. Her time in the second heat was the fastest for a 2-year-old filly this year.

In the Harriman, Dancer drove Nevele Rascal to victory in the raceoff after finishing second in the first heat. Fancy Dartmouth, driven by Ralph Baldwin, won the first heat but was second to Nevele Rascal in the raceoff.

Nevele Rascal, who paid $7.20 to win, was timed in 2:05.3 in the raceoff the best time of the year-old trotter on a half-mile track.

Dancer's triumph in the Harriman marked the third consecutive year he had scored a victory in the Harriman with a colt representing the Nevele Acres. Last year, he won with Nevele Major and in 1967 with Nevele Pride.

Billie Bids for Fourth

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — Two Court, the 1963 and 1965 winner game to the championship set, and climbed back from 2-3 standards necessary to carry to 5-1 in the final set before her through to the title.

The ladies will be competing Newcombe, the 25-year-old for the $3,600 winner's purse, power players from Sydney, double last year's figure. This had to fight off a valiant year's runner-up will get $1,800, comeback by Holland's Tom Okker. Leading the "Flying Dutchman" 8-6, 3-6, 6-1, 5-0, the Australian appeared to have victory in his grasp, but Okker, teammate Bob Lutz, stormed back into the match, defending champion and top taking five successive games, seed Rod Laver and two other including three service breaks, Australians, 1967 champion to pull back to 5-5 all in the John Newcombe and Tony fourth set His challenge ended Roche in the men's semi-finals, there as Newcombe took the next two games to clinch victory.

Ashe, from Gum Spring, Virginia, reached the last four for the second year in Roche, the second seed, succession with a 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, salvaged three match points before downing Clark Graebner, the Los Angeles player with 153 minutes, 4-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 11-9, stunning cross court returns, blazing passing shots and Laver had trouble holding his service returns.

It was these passing shots of everything else right to take, withering power that gave Ashe South Africa's Cliff Drysdale in service breaks in the first and straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3. Times seventh games of the second and again the Australian set, which he wound up in high "rocket" fired back impossible style by serving a love game, looking shots, including Drysdale Lutz retaliated to take the third dale's double fisted backhands.

Charles Bouton and Rich Elemendorf each had two hits for the winners, with Gary Ennis adding a triple and Droulette, a double.

Bill Hoffay, Brian Sheltigner, Dan Brown and Joe Brown did all the hitting for the losers.

Luther's Night Takes the Feature

MONTICELLO: On June 11, he was the victor but never in the lead until it was Luther's Night once again at Monticello Raceway when the 7-year-old gelding driven by his trainer Jim Grundy, took the featured fourth race trot in 2:09.4 beating out his competitors in a driving homestretch brush.

Luther, who has his backers, has been having some frustrating finishes during his stay at Monticello and has been in photos for win in three of his six starts at the Sullivan oval.

On June 11, he was the victor but never in the lead until it was Luther's Night once again at Monticello Raceway when the 7-year-old gelding driven by his trainer Jim Grundy, took the featured fourth race trot in 2:09.4 beating out his competitors in a driving homestretch brush.

Tuesday night, Grundy kept Luther, always in contention, Grundy continued to shake off his recent doldrums by taking the fifth with Volvo Knight, to add to his fourth race win.

The daily double combination was 4 and 6 at Monticello on Tuesday night, returning the correct two-dollar ticket holders $122.40.

The opening event was a trot which was taken in 2:11.2 by High Ridge, a six-year-old gelding driven by Kenneth Heeney. High Ridge, a son of High Water-Princess Melody, did not race last year and the victory was his first time out in 1969. High Ridge qualified on June 20, and trotted the mile in 2:10.3, coming in fourth by seven lengths to Direct Return. His last previous recorded victory was the fastest win of his life and was set in 2:10 flat on August 28, 1967, at Monticello.

The second event was a pace for three-year-old maidens and taken by Dave Western, Charles Conner in the sulky. The colt is a son of Everett Chief-Nutinas Grace and paced the mile in 2:07.4.

Spartans Score Over Men's Club

SAUGERTIES

Billy Stokes hurled a three-hitter, giving up one unearned run in the final stanza as his team, Spartan Pools, defeated the Southside Men's Club, 4-1, in a Yankee Division game played Tuesday night in the Saugerties Softball League. Stokes struck out nine while issuing one free pass.

The Kingston entry continues to make a run-away of that division, holding a 5-0 record for first place.

Stokes and his pitching partner, George Norton, have compiled a perfect 0.00 earned run average in the league. The only two runs scored on the Spartans through the first five games were unearned.

Kingston scored first on singles by Ron Secreto and Pete Tazewski, a passed ball and Mike Amato's ground out.

Spartan got one more in the third as Rich Sickler doubled and came around on a wild pitch. The winners picked up two markers in the fourth as Nick Berardi and Tazewski singled in two.

James Murray was unanimously reelected to a third term as president of the Ellenville Central School District Board of Education at a special meeting Tuesday night.

In what was described as a "calm and cool" meeting, all of the appointments and elections were unanimous and all of the Board's officers will be serving successive terms.

A spokesman for the Board told The Freeman that "There was no opposition voiced during the meeting for the first time in years." It was added that the Board's "smooth beginning" was "very heartening."

"Cactus" Opens in Woodstock

by DOROTHY A. NAREL

"Cactus Flower," the Abe Burrows comedy which starred Lauren Bacall on Broadway, bowed to a capacity house at the Woodstock Playhouse last night.

Taking the leads were Mary Ellen Ray and George Gitto, both of whom delighted the first night audience with their performances.

In this light comedy, Gitto is seen as the suave Dr. Julian Winston, a dentist to whom the thought of marriage immediately exposes sensitive nerves. He is finally hooked by the nurse secretary Mary Ellen Ray after a romp with a delicious dish-called Toni, played by Barbara Houston. Ned Leavitt is the boy next door to Toni and Bill Metzger appears as the Don Juan of the Diplomatic Set, Senor Sanchez. "Cactus Flower" is entertaining and a perfect vehicle for a relaxed evening. While the first night performance needed tightening up, the cast and crew have a production which should please the week-end holiday crowds. The set changes are unique for the Woodstock stage and credit for this achievement goes to Harold Moss. The production is under the direction of Harold Baldridge.

George Gitto was last seen at the Woodstock Playhouse as General Burgoyne in Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple." He recently appeared with Miss Fannie Flagg in "Private Lives" and has been directing in Dallas, Texas. Last week, he took the male lead in "Girl in My Soup" at Woodstock Playhouse. Mary Ellen Ray has worked since 1967 with the American Conservatory where she appeared as Sarah Good in "The Crucible" and Miss Ramsden in "Man and Superman," among others. She has commercials to her credit and also appeared in the film "Petulia." Prior to 1967 she lived in England where she worked in repertory and for the BBC.

Barbara Houston has worked opposite Forrest Tucker in "A Thousand Clowns" at the Drury Lane, Chicago, and played leads in "Come Blow Your Horn" and "The Little Hut." She has played featured roles with Betsy Palmer, Martha Raye, Howard Keel and Jane Powell and recently completed the female lead in an Irish film of "The Prince and the Pauper."

William Metzger, a familiar figure at Woodstock Playhouse, has appeared at Ford's Theatre in Washington, D.C. for Circle in the Square's "Moon for the Misbegotten." Previous credits include both seasons of the Hudson Valley Repertory during which time he played James Tyrone Jr. in "Long Day's Journey Into Night." This is Mr. Metzger's fourth summer at the Woodstock Playhouse.

Ned Leavitt toured this year with the Stratford National Theatre of Canada's productions of "Hamlet" and "The Alchemist." Prior to that he has appeared as Teddy in Pinter's "The Homecoming" at the University of Michigan and in many productions at the University of Hawaii and Harvard.

Next on the Playhouse bill,

Employment Relations Board Gets Favorable Decision

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State's Public Employment Relations Board emerged victorious Tuesday in a Court of Appeals decision affirming it had the right to divide the bulk of state workers into five units for bargaining purposes.

The decision came as elections began to determine the employee organization to represent the workers in the five units.

The decision by the high tribunal was considered a setback for the Civil Service Employees Association which had argued for a single unit to represent approximately 135,000 state workers. Gov. Rockefeller originally created the single unit for the bulk of state employees.

The decision to dismantle the so-called general unit was made by PERB last November and prompted a series of court actions that culminated in Tuesday's decision.

The lone dissenting vote came from Associate Justice Francis Bergan, who said state employee negotiations are under the control of the governor and that nothing in the Taylor Law suggests PERB could undo or overturn arrangements made by the state's chief executive officer.

CSEA had argued that there was no basis for the breakup of the single unit Rockefeller had created. Under that designation, CSEA was the sole bargaining agent for employees in contract negotiations.

The high court's decision was greeted with jubilation by officials of Council 50 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, chief rivals of the CSEA in the elections.

Lillian Roberts, who guided a strike by mental hospital workers last fall to win the right to an election, hailed the court ruling as "a significant victory for hospital workers throughout the state."

Regular board meetings will be held the second and fourth Mondays of each month at 8:15 p.m. The next is slated for July 14.

It was resolved that the board make known its feelings to the county legislators that "any additional sales tax be used exclusively for aid to community schools for education."

It was also decided to join Attorney General of New York Louis Lefkowitz in bringing a charge of price fixing against numerous text book publishers. The charge states that price fixing was going on from 1959 to 1967. District Principal Ralph Steeves stated that the action, if completed, in the state's favor, "could result in quite a bit of money, even for us."

Rhinebeck Adopts Interim Budget

AN INTERIM budget of $50,000 was adopted unanimously by the Rhinebeck Board of Education Tuesday night at its annual re-organizational meeting.

The budget, upon the suggestion of clerk to the board Walter Snyder, will cover expenses incurred during July and August until a 1969-70 fiscal year budget for the district can hopefully be passed. It includes $28,000 in salaries, $7,500 for Bulkeley School renovation, and incidentals like supplies and utilities.

The figures will be included in the next proposed budget to the taxpayers for the coming school year. Surplus funds are being used to cover expenses.

Robert W. Asher was reelected president of the board. Hans Boehm was the selection for vice president, and Walter Snyder resumed the position of clerk.

Florence Ahearn will be treasurer, James McGuiness, tax collector, and school attorney.

Negro Woman Is Elected Head of Dutchess Board

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — A 43-year-old mother of six sons was elected Tuesday night as the first Negro president of this Dutchess County city's Board of Education.

Mrs. Rupert Tarver, a member of the school board since 1964, and a former vice president was elected to the presidency by the membership. She will serve until June of 1970 when her five-year term as a school board member expires.

Her election was not the first time Mrs. Tarver set a precedent in education for a member of her race.

In 1954 she was hired as the first Negro school teacher in the Galesburg, Ill., school system.

She also has taught at Southern University, Baton Rouge, La., and Dutchess Community College and Marlboro College, both of which are in Poughkeepsie.

She is assistant director of the Poughkeepsie Model Cities program. Her husband is director of an urban education program run by the Poughkeepsie school district and former director of the city Neighborhood Service Organization.

Dear Abby

Dying to Outlive Mate

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Now I know why God lets the woman outlive her husband by about 10 years. She needs at least that much time to rest and recuperate. Pity the poor woman who's been married 50 years. I've been married 15 years, and if this man of mine doesn't go pretty soon, I pray to God that I will soon be laid to rest. I couldn't take another 35 years of this.

It's nag and brag! Rant and rave! Yell and cuss! All he has on his mind are eat, sleep, and sex (especially sex). A poor woman goes to bed tired and wakes up tired. All a man is good for is his paycheck.

I've heard women talk about how lonely they are after their husbands pass on. Well, here is one who is looking forward to that day. Sign me...

"TIRE, TIRE, TIRE IN LONG BEACH"
DEAR TIRE: Too bad you didn't sign your name. A husband is entitled to know how his wife feels about him. He may want to hire a food taster.

DEAR ABBY: I come very close to being the person described by "CO-WORKER." (She raises her children on the telephone on company time.) Suppose a woman finds herself widowed or divorced with children to support? What are her alternatives? She could:
1. Go on relief.
2. Steal.
3. Sponger off her relatives.
4. Entertain men for money.

5. Do as I did. Go to work. My children are too old for baby sitters. The hours between after school and the time I get home from work are few, and I don't think their being alone during that time can be called "letting them raise themselves."

My children are told that I am available to them by phone if they have any questions, and I made that clear to my boss when I took this job. My children receive more supervision and attention than children from homes where Mother never leaves home except for bridge parties and club meetings.

If you were in my position, Abby, which alternative would you choose?

WORKING MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: The one you chose.

DEAR ABBY: I have read with great interest the recent article regarding the American service man who was bringing home a Vietnamese "prostitute" as his wife.

I am one of many service men here in Vietnam, and I want to tell you a little story: During the major campaign of 1968, my Vietnamese wife—at the risk of her own life—stayed by my side during three days of pure hell, completely surrounded by Viet Cong. She could have evacuated the area earlier, but she chose to remain with me, knowing full well that the penalty would be death if the Viet Cong found her in the company of an American. This same girl had been married three years before to a Vietnamese captain in the marines who had been killed in the service of his country.

Our marriage was recently approved after a long investigation which proved that this girl has a character and integrity that most American women would have difficulty matching.

When I arrive in the States with my wife, if anyone labels her a "prostitute," he will have to answer to me.

A FOUR YEAR VIETNAM VETERAN

DEAR ABBY: I wish you had been more positive in stating that it is a father's DUTY to make an effort to meet every young man who comes to take his daughter out.

My husband was one of those fathers who was either not at home, or was "too busy" to meet his daughter's dates, and now we have a grandchild whose father he never met until he had to ask him to marry his daughter.

(sign me)

South had plenty of distribution but not much in the way of high cards. North had no distribution at all but he did have 15 high-card points. In any event, South was fully justified in over-calling and going on to game after North gave him a jump raise.

It was unfortunate for them that North's ace, king, and queen of diamonds were facing South's singleton and that only one discard would be worth anything to South. It was even more unfortunate that East knew how to count to 13.

The play started out simply enough. West opened the four of clubs, fourth best of partner's suit. East's nine knocked out South's ace and South promptly led a diamond to dummy's ace and discarded his deuce of clubs on the diamond king.

Then South was ready to play trumps. He led dummy's eight. South rather hoped that East would duck but East wasn't sitting back meekly to let South pull two rounds of trumps. East had been busy counting.

South had started with one diamond. He had discarded on the second lead of that suit. South had started with just two clubs. If he had started with three, he would have discarded another club on a high diamond. This left South with a lot of spades and hearts. If he had seven spades and three hearts, he would probably have discarded a heart on the queen of diamonds. Therefore, he had started with six spades and four hearts.

All this made it very easy for East to find the winning defense. He led a low heart. His ace was going to be safe in any event. West produced the king and then returned the suit. Queen of diamonds were facing South's singleton and that only one discard would be worth anything to South. It was even

PARTING SHOTS — Using "hold on and hit 'em" tactics, defenders of Ben Het stay in their holes as B52 bombers blast Communist troops lingering around the bastion. Five waves of Stratofortresses indicated a continuing threat to the Green Beret outpost. (UPI TELEPHOTO BY CHUNSUKE AKATSUKA).

Communists Urged To Talks About POWs

PARIS (UPI)—An allied official at the Vietnam talks today urged the Communists to open separate negotiations on the release of prisoners, including American pilots from jails in North Vietnam.

"This could be one of the keys to break the deadlock," said the South Vietnamese delegation official, who asked not to be identified. The talks go into their 24th session Thursday.

"This is a humanitarian problem which should be treated separately from other problems related to the war," he said. "We think one should not join the question of prisoners of war with any other problem."

No Names

So far, he said, the Communists not only have refused to begin negotiations on the issue but also have refused to reveal the names of captured American prisoners so their families could be certain they are alive. The United States has the names of 1,350 U.S. Servicemen listed as missing or captured in Vietnam. About 340 are known to be prisoners of war, and appeals by Washington officials for a full list have brought no response from Hanoi.

(In Washington, State Department officials said they are worried by a Viet Cong broadcast Monday threatening "appropriate punishment" for the alleged massacre of Viet Cong prisoners held by the Saigon government.

(They said the implication was that U.S. or South Vietnamese prisoners held by the Communists might be harmed or mistreated. The U.S. officials said they were studying the broadcast to see whether the Viet Cong charges were meant as a response to the high level concern expressed in Washington recently over the welfare of U.S. prisoners.)

Chief and Foremost

The official said since the start of the Paris conference almost six months ago, the allies have consistently pressed for negotiations on the prisoner issue without success. Release of the prisoners is the "chief and foremost humanitarian problem of the war," he said. "That's why we have proposed this should be discussed as one of the first items."

5 Waves of B52s Go After the Reds

By WALTER WHITEHEAD
SAIGON (UPI)—Five armadas of B52 bombers late Tuesday and early today went after North Vietnamese troops lingering in the hills around Ben Het, the Green Beret camp they shelled for 56 days without letup.

The 57th day, Tuesday, brought none of the rocket, mortar or artillery barrages that had taken their toll among the camp's 650 defenders daily since May 6, military spokesmen said.

American Green Beret advisers reported from the garrison 280 miles northeast of Saigon that they believed most of the 2,000 Communist troops had pulled back into nearby Cambodia to resupply and get reinforcements.

The fact five waves of Stratofortresses — three after dark Tuesday and two before dawn today — dropped 450 tons of bombs on targets four miles west and six miles southwest of the camp indicated a continuing threat to the outpost.

Since the beginning of the North Vietnamese siege, the eight-engine B52s have flown 123 raids in support of the camp, dumping a total of 11,000 tons of bombs onto the suspected communist hideouts. A relief column of 3,500 South Vietnamese troops smashed through to the camp Tuesday in a spearhead from Dak To, eight miles to the east, that reopened highway 512 for supply convoys to Ben Het.

The government soldiers encountered no resistance on their four-day offensive along the one-lane highway, leading to the belief that many of the communists in the hills had given up the siege.

U.S. headquarters in Saigon reported light combat elsewhere, with the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese firing rocket or mortar salvos into seven towns and allied camps overnight, causing light losses.

Other B52s bombed Communist troop concentrations and staging areas 58 miles northeast of Saigon, 27 miles southeast of the capital and 20 miles south of the northern coastal city of Da Nang, spokesmen said.

About 50 miles south of Da Nang Tuesday, troops of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division uncovered two weapons and munitions caches containing nearly 10 tons of supplies, including 1,395 mortar rounds.

Terrorists in Khanh Hung, 90 miles southwest of Saigon, tossed hand grenades into two theatres, killing 13 civilians and wounding 16, South Vietnamese spokesmen said.

Ray Suggests Armstrong for Draft Board Post

KINGSTON

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan said today that he is recommending Hydreot S. Armstrong of 49 Gage Street to replace Andrew T. Gilday of 275 West Chestnut Street as a member of the local draft board. Garraghan said that Gilday is resigning from the board as of July 16. Gilday is a Democratic Conservative candidate for county legislature in the city of Kingston.

Armstrong is a former president of the NAACP and a former Kingston policeman. Garraghan termed Armstrong "a good citizen, a good family man and one who has long been active in the affairs of the community."
